

The cosmetics of marriage

• Be as natural as possible. Do not over-do make-up.

• As the gown is selected, think in terms of hair and face as well.

• A harmony of colors is essential to a beautiful wedding. Flowers, maids' dresses, even the colors of the church or hall, should influence your selection of nail color and make-up color highlights.

• Colors should be muted, soft or veiled. Flat tones are best. Frosted shades or whites create glare and should be avoided.

• Sharp contrast are to be avoided and shine should be only on lips with a hint at the cheeks. (Cheek color is best applied under foundation.)

• The foundation should be matte or semi-matte, easiest with a sheer, water-based foundation (match skin tone of neck for color). Several shades darker can be a beautiful emphasis above eyes.

• Eyes should be emphasized with natural tones. No harsh colors, but a touch of blue shadow out of the corner of the eye.

• Curl eyelashes for larger eyes and mascara applied afterwards - tips first, then the entire lash.

• Lip pencils in soft, natural shades fill in lips. Slightly brighter is only appropriate for evening weddings.
