Armed with new executive, Artisans await Summerfest

The Credit Valley Artisans will be among the Halton Hills Arts Council's member-groups demonstrating their activities and discussing their interests with the general public next Wednesday night at Centennial Public School in Georgetown.

The evening seminar, part of the Arts Council's ongoing Arts in Action series, will offer participating groups table space to display their wares, if any.

Arts Council president Gretchen Day, outgoing president of the Artisans, informed fellow artisans of the seminar during last Wednesday's club meeting.

The same meeting saw Bonnie Smith elected to succeed Mrs. Day as Artisans president, Paulette Greig selected as secretary, Libby Fagan as treasurer, Tina Ross as publicity officer, Hillary Kirk as newsletter editor and Renee Gad as course director.

"The purpose of Arts in Action is to make the people of Halton Hills more aware of the arts groups in this town," Mrs. Day explained. "All members of the Arts Council will be able to give a five-minute talk to those who attend."

Summerfest will be held June 20 and 21 in conjunction with Pioneer Days, the Artisans were reminded. Among its highlights will be fine arts performances at Holy Cross, followed by refreshments. Tickets will be $5.

All arts and crafts at Summerfest will be shown in booths at Cedarvale over the two-day period.

"It will be a smaller fest this year, but I think the quality will be better than last year's," Mrs. Day said. "For this reason, only those belonging to the Arts Council will be showing their work this year."

THREE JUDGES There will also be three out-of-town judges who will evaluate all paintings, sculptures, crafts and other entries. Entries will go into either the professional class or amateur class for judging.

"There will also be a haywagon this year which will take people between Pioneer Day festivities on Main Street and Summerfest activities here in Cedarvale," Mrs. Day said. "Unfortunately, the wagon can't be drawn by a horse. Apparently, they had a problem once when a horse-drawn float ran away with a local beauty queen, so it will have to be a tractor-drawn ride."

Coun. John McDonald will also be conducting an historical walk between the downtown area and Cedarvale.

Mrs. Day also announced that a series of three concerts, called Musical Tri-Light, will begin October 29. The first concert will feature a folk group called Maple Sugar singing a variety of French and English folk songs and dances that have been collected from all over Canada. The concert will take place at Georgetown District High School.

The second concert will take place February 1, 1981, and will feature the Tapestry Singers. The group performs skits and music from theatrical productions dating from 1920 to the present time. This concert will be at the Acton High School.

On April 8, Maureen Forester, one of Canada's foremost contraltos, will perform at Georgetown high school. Miss Forester visited the Republic of China last year and has sung all over North America.

Tickets for all three concerts are $15 and there are 400 tickets available, 20 per cent of which have already been sold. Ticket sales will start in June with all proceeds going to promote the arts in Halton Hills.

Bonnie Smith announced that more people would be welcome to join the pottery group, which meets at the Cedarvale cottage every Monday night.

Cable licence renewal

A licence renewal application by Halton Cable Systems Ltd., which serves Acton, Georgetown and Milton, will be considered by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission in Hull, Quebec, June 25.
