PENNIESWORTH

PENNIESWORTH, owned by Greta Hopkins and Lynn Barnard, was opened in 1977 on Mill Street. This business has since moved to 98 Main Street, where the premises provide room to expand.

Greta Hopkins Lynn Barnard

This business is a partner with the public, unlike regular retail stores, because the shop sells for the public. A unique feature of PENNIESWORTH is the fact that the owners cater to families out shopping together. A children's corner towards the back of the store keeps "Junior" out of mischief while parents shop.

"Every item on consignment is in very good condition," Mrs. Hopkins said, "as well as being half of the retail price and sometimes less, which is an immense saving for a family. The turn-over of merchandise is rapid, with 600 new items a week to choose from."

The idea of PENNIESWORTH was conceived by Lynn Barnard while living in the U.S., where she came across a similar business enjoying success.

"When we first opened the store in Georgetown, this type of business was the first in town," Mrs. Barnard said. "Now others have followed suit."

Consignment days are Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by appointment. Call Greta or Lynn for information at 877-1242.

For Pioneer Days, June 19 through 21 inclusive, PENNIESWORTH, along with North Halton Sports, is sponsoring a children's bicycle parade.

JOHN BOUGHTON JEWELLERS

JOHN BOUGHTON JEWELLERS, located on Main Street and managed by Lorna Engleby, has enjoyed 26 years of business in downtown Georgetown.

The store began with low line costume goods and has elevated to quality lines, carat gold jewellery, more precious metals and higher style lines in keeping with the industry. "The public looks for clean style, and pieces in classic lines", said Ms. Engleby.

A wide selection of silver plate flatware and hollow ware may be found at BOUGHTON'S along with Royal Doulton figurines and a variety of fine china collector plates. The repair department includes an extensive service in watch and jewellery repairs. Other services offered are ear piercing by appointment and free ring cleaning and inspection. Personal appraisals or those for insurance purposes are made on location or in some cases, sent out to a gemmologist of repute.

Custom-made jewellery and designs to customer's specifications or the availability of BOUGHTON'S own designs are a speciality of this store. "Customers appreciate our competitive prices", stated Ms. Engleby.

An interesting selection of Bulova and German made movement clocks both key winds and electronic may be found in this well established, tastefully decorated store in downtown Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN CHRISTIAN BOOK ROOM

Doreen Nowell

GEORGETOWN CHRISTIAN BOOK ROOM, owned by Leslie Hale and Doreen Nowell who opened this business venture in The Old Bank building in 1975, have since moved their establishment to Westeyan Street where they have more room to display an extended line of goods.

A wide selection of books, records, music, gift items, as well as Sunday School supplies including educational material, awards and music, is carried in this store.

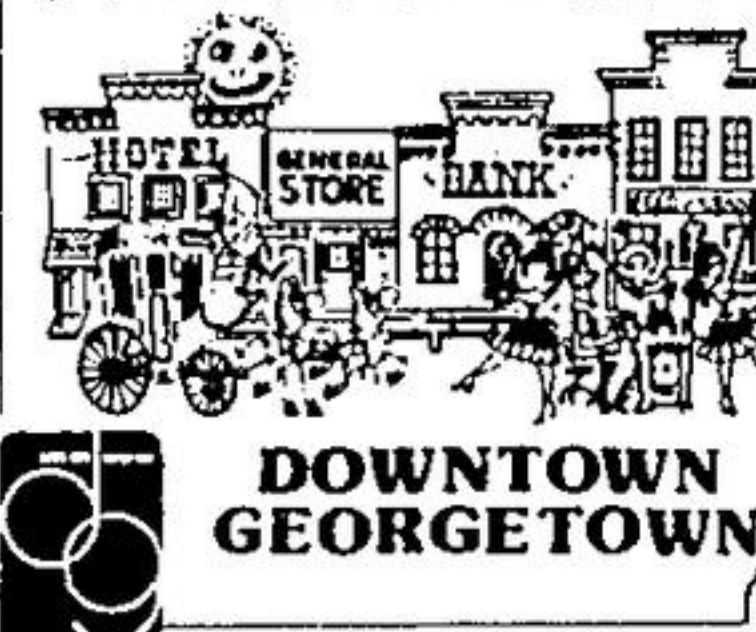

In a special corner for THE BRIDE to be, you will find novelty wedding mementos and a selection of wedding and anniversary novelty gifts.

A wide selection of Gospel Records, including Grammy Award releases is available for perusal. Also to be found there are traditional and contemporary records, tapes, song books and cassettes.

Some lines carried by GEORGETOWN CHRISTIAN BOOK ROOM are First Communion and Confirmation gift items, inspirational reading material, Bible study series and of course, the Number 1 best seller, THE HOLY BIBLE in many versions and translations.

Greeting cards, boxed cards, serviettes and gift wrap may be found on the shelves. As you cast your eye around, you will discover wall plaques, children's books, and novelty religious items. Jewellery of a symbolic nature is also laid out on view decoratively.
