

Hooray! School's out!

These students were presented with school letters last Wednesday evening at Centennial Middle School's graduation ceremonies. There were 24 school letters handed out to students who achieved the required number of points over their three years at Centennial. (Herald photo)

Hurray! School's out for the summer, and a burst of exuberant paper-throwing was the reaction at Glen Williams Public School last week at the news. These Grade 3 students are on their way to Grade 4, but that's a whole two months of sun and summer away, so they'll be thinking of nothing but their freedom for at least a month and a half. Centennial Middle School held its graduation ceremonies Wednesday. Among those receiving awards were Jeff Streuter, who won the boys' award for general proficiency, Karen Edgar, who won the principal's award, and Cathy Lenz, who won the girls' award for general proficiency. (Herald photo)

These students were among the winners of subject awards for proficiency in a particular subject at Centennial School's graduation last week. Award winners were Kathy Malanuk, Glenn Farrow, Keith Spiller, Sandra Yach, Janice Firih, Debbie and Carolyn McConnell, Elizabeth Becker, Annette Hammond, Paul Watts, Andrew Berry and Wendy Graham. ## Academic achievement at Centennial School bring many awards

Centennial Middle School held its graduation ceremonies last Wednesday evening in the school gymnasium.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Paul Wilson, president of the student forum. Valedictorian was Paul Watts.

A number of awards were handed out to deserving students. Laurie Kelly, Theresa Koszicka, Dan Hall and Jim Orwin received citizenship awards. John Hodgson, Scott Peck, Craig Harrison, Kelvin Eastwood and Greg Griffiths won improvement awards.

In the subject awards, Kathy Malanuk won in language arts; Glenn Farrow in mathematics; Keith Spiller in science; Sandra Yach in social science; Janice Firih in French; Debbie and Carolyn McConnell in music; Elizabeth Becker in art; Annette Hammond in girls' physical education; Paul Watts in boys' physical education; Andrew Berry in industrial arts and Wendy Graham in family studies.

Derek Hedley won the I.O.D.E. award for the most improved student in English. Leadership awards were won by Kirsten Bjerkelund, Cathy Ryan, Richard Fontana and Paul Dobson. Proficiency awards for academic achievement were won by Cathy Lenz and Jeff Streuter. The winner of the principal's award was Karen Edgar.
