Aid for immigrants is insufficient: MP

By ROSEMARY CINO
Herald Special
Multicultural programs amount to "tokenism" when the federal government is failing to provide aid to new immigrants to help them integrate into Canadian life, according to Brampton-Georgetown MP John McDermid.

Mr. McDermid said last week he's concerned about the integration of recent immigrants and he's not satisfied with federal government funding for immigration aid.

"I look around at the various groups in our community, at the Parliaments of Canada and Ontario, and I don't see many representatives of new Canadians," Mr. McDermid said in a recent interview.

He voiced his concern over federal government sponsorship of multicultural spending which encourages artistic endeavors but falls short of providing basic skills for new immigrants.

Mr. McDermid raised the issue recently in the House of Commons prior to the summer recess.

"Present policies are not doing enough to help the average person out there in a new land," he said in his Commons speech.

"Dispensing funds to song and dance groups, writers, academics, etc., is a very commendable thing, but is it helping the person out there looking for a job who cannot speak the language and does not know what assistance is available to him?"

At his office, Mr. McDermid said he wants to see newer ethnic groups encouraged to join various local organizations.

"I'm not sure we're making them welcome," he said. "I feel strongly that when a person comes to a new country they are adopting that country and they try to participate."

Of the $10 million multicultural budget last year, only $633,000 was directed to immigrant aid, Mr. McDermid said.

Apartments present unique fire hazards

Apartment buildings present fire hazards which do not exist in single or double storey residences although newer apartments are considered safe.

Prevention is the key in all buildings and the following measures should be noted:

- Know the locations of emergency exits, fire alarms and fire fighting equipment.
- Use the latter only if you are familiar with its operation.
- Stairwells should be kept clear at all times. They shouldn't be used for storage and the doors to stairwells must be kept closed at all times. Report infractions to the fire department.
- Be sure that your garbage does not contain burning materials before putting it into the chute.
- Garbage should be in small packages which will not block the chute so don't force cartons down the chute.
- The use of barbecues on balconies is a dangerous practice due to the confined space and the hazards involved in the use of starting fluids.
- They can also produce poisonous carbon monoxide gas in the apartment as well as a smoke nuisance to your neighbours.
