This little ball of fur in Steven Smith's hands is actually alive—it's Rags, the Georgetown Children's Library mascot. Rags is popular with most library patrons, perhaps with the exception of a lady who thought she was a rat. Rags is a sociable guinea pig, and enjoys being spoiled by patrons and staff at the library. She is Peruvian Cavie by breed, and about four years old.

IT'S ALL HAPPENIN' AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

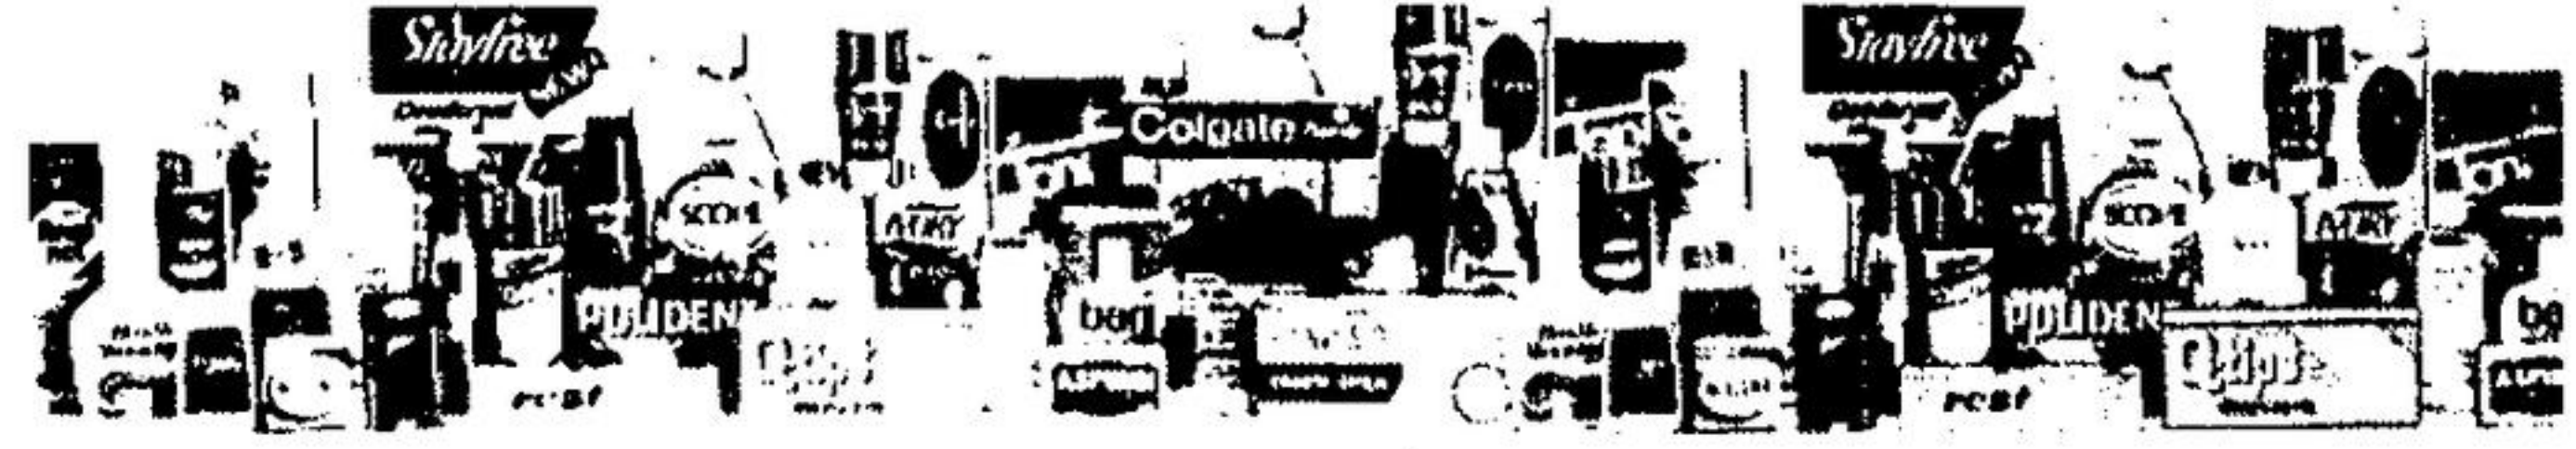

Ross Renaud scrutinizes his work critically before handing it in to be spliced with the efforts of the other would-be animators at the animation workshop for teenagers at the Acton branch of the library Saturday afternoon. The animators studied the most basic form of animation, which is drawing directly on the film. The film is then spliced together and they viewed the results.
