Knechtel applauds council

accomplishments.
"Most of what happens is a result of 12 people making a decision, and I think council has done a good job," he said.

"No council is ever perfect, but I think they ran an excellent council. They make mistakes but they're honest mistakes."

The local tax rate has increased at a slower rate than that of the region or the board of education over the past two years, Coun. Knechtel pointed out.

"It was done, not by cutting services, but by trying to get the best value for the dollars we have. This is the joint result of the work of staff and council. Both years, we've had a budget which had a surplus."

Coun. Knechtel foresees two issues in Acton which will have to be resolved in the near future: the future of Acton in terms of development and what is going to be done with the Acton town hall.

"Acton's future development is going to require a lot of time and study before we can come to final decisions," he said.

TOWN HALL
As to his concern about the town hall, Coun. Knechtel would like to see a decision reached on what is going to be done with the town hall, without a lot of public money being spent on it.

"I think the town hall restoration committee has done an excellent job of accepting this challenge and I hope their efforts will be successful."

Grubbe recalls 'biggest challenge'

she found the social commitments which go with being a councillor to be more than she had expected.

"The time commitment was more than I expected on a social level," she said. "People ask their councillors to attend parties and celebrations, things like that, and I really enjoy it, but it is a time commitment."

Being a politician has been "probably the biggest challenge of my life on a personal level," Mrs. Grubbe said.

"Probably the hardest thing to accept is that you just can't please all of the people all of the time."

Mrs. Grubbe has recently handed in her resignation from her position as co-ordinator of the Acton Community Services Centre to allow more time to be a councillor.

GREAT SUPPORT
"There have been adjustments to be made for my family, but they're my greatest support, so that makes it easier," she said.

Coun. Grubbe is particularly proud of her council drop-in each Friday afternoon, where Acton residents have the opportunity to discuss the issues with the mayor and their regional and local councillors on a personal basis.

"A lot of issues were discussed there that never would have made it to the formal council agenda," she said. "The opportunity Acton people had to talk with local and regional councillor and the mayor on a one-to-one basis, in my opinion, brought government back to the people for the first time since 1974."
