

Winter-fest '81 set for Feb. 7

The Georgetown Jaycees are denying that last week's dusting of snow which fell on the community was a cool gimmick aimed at perking interest in the club's Winter-fest 1981.

But, says Jaycee treasurer and publicity chairman Tony Evers, plans for the February 7 event have moved into high gear and there is still room for other activity ideas. All that's needed to make it a complete success is lots more snow.

A full day of games and spectator events at the Georgetown Fairgrounds is already proposed by the Jaycees and activities will stretch into the night with a wind-up dance for about 80 couples in the armory. The club expects to launch a "name-the-mascot" contest next week to find a suitable monicker for the Winterfest beaver.

JAYCEES

Along with the usual favorites—horse-drawn sleigh rides, nail driving and log sawing contests, kids' donut-eating, snow-sculpturing and lots of broomball—Winterfest organizers hope to add a snow tug-of-war, a cross-country ski clinic with trails mapped out and ready to use, crazy curling, and elephant ball, (a kind of soccer played with a five-foot diameter ball).

Toboggan races and snowball-throwing contests are also planned and the Jaycees hope to add an extra ice rink (there were two last year) for people to use for free skating.

Weather permitting, the Outers' Club from Georgetown and District High School will construct another ice hut. The Jaycees hope to issue a challenge to groups as well as families for the snow-sculpturing contest and, while the roads may look bare at the moment, the town has already indicated that it would be glad to dump snow at the fairgrounds.

Much of the event planning has yet to be done, Mr. Evers said, and the club is after plenty of participation from the town's other service clubs and organizations. At least some commercial representation is planned for the Winterfest: The Jaycees have proposed a "Recess' Edge" snowmobile equipment show for the armory.

Plans for the dance and suggested dog sled races have yet to solidify, Mr. Evers said. Ticket prices for the dance are expected to go on sale in the next couple of weeks at a cost of about $5 to $6 per couple, and will be available from Jaycee members or contact Bill Smith (853-2711) and Cathy Dudley (877-7767) for further information.
