

Minor atoms victorious

By JOHN FELICE
The last time the Al Pillati Minor Atoms clashed with Burlington, they needed a goal in the dying minutes of the game to salvage a tie. It was a far different contest on November 25 as Georgetown easily handled their visitors 10-2.

The scoresheet indicated that Adam Bennett and Doug Kent each helped set up two of their team mates. Brent Presswood, Travis Gardner, and Andrew Hoddnott drew one assist each.

Burlington 2
Georgetown 2

The Minor Atoms went north on Sunday and faced the spunky second place Orangeville squad. Despite outshooting their hosts 30-8, Georgetown was hard pressed to earn a tie.

Brent Presswood put Georgetown on the scoreboard with a fine unassisted rush midway through the opening period. Orangeville tied and scored the go-ahead goal in the final frame. Continued illness to Jason Knight forced him to miss this contest too and enabled goalie Curtis Green to play out on the wing. Curtis passed to Adam Bennett who fired the equalizer at the 4:15 mark to end the scoring. Neither team was able to take advantage of its two power-play opportunities. The next away game will be in Milton on Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

Victory for novices

Georgetown North Halton Sports Camp Novices exhibited a solid team effort to defeat Milton 1-0, and thus increase their first place lead to 3 pts. over second place Milton.

An early goal by Mark Lorito, assisted by Wes McCaulay, was all Georgetown needed to win.

Outstanding goaltending by the Milton goalie and by Georgetown's Shannon Finnes helped to make it a very close game.

Georgetown's defensive corps was led by a very impressive Mike McElroy. The coaching staff of Lorito, Barnes and Burton would have preferred a two or three goal cushion but nevertheless were impressed with a solid two way performance by their entire roster.

Georgetown's next home game is against Brampton, Sunday, Dec. 7 at 3:00 p.m.

Vote 'no' to join Tri-County

The Georgetown and District Minor Hockey association voted last Sunday afternoon against further consideration of amalgamating their league with Tri-County hockey. The vote against the amalgamation proposal was 22 for, 25 against with 2 abstainers.

The meeting was attended by coaches, managers and members of the executive. President Wendy Stewart said that the amalgamation vote would have enlarged a steering committee from the present two, to four members.

The steering committee would then have further investigated the possibilities of joining with Tri-County hockey for a united voice in hockey matters in Georgetown.

The proposal to amalgamate started when Tri-County approached the GDMHA. Last spring, a two man committee, Jim Hephurn and Jim Mackie for the GDMHA investigated the proposed venture. The "no" motion by the coaches and managers will result in disbanding further investigation of amalgamation.

A discussion was held about the select teams at the meeting. Wendy Stewart said a report stated that the four town selects were doing well in competition this year as opposed to last year, but their future in the four-town league will not be known until the end of the season.

Notes for GDMHA:
Future Select Games: Dec. 6, Atom Selects vs. Streetsville at 6:00 p.m.
Dec. 6 Novice Selects vs. Milton at Gordon Alcott at 11:30 a.m.

Women's hockey in full swing

Women's hockey is off to an enthusiastic start this season, but it seems the girls are just short of enough players to have a third team.

Convener of the Women's hockey league, John Netten, says that because there are not enough interested girls, Georgetown only has an intermediate (9 years to 14 years) and Senior (14 years and older).

Netten is concerned that Georgetown has no junior team because he says the younger girls could help to develop the system so there would be a continuous flow of talent for the other leagues. The junior league features no bodychecking so it should attract some girls that are interested in concentrating on their skating and puck handling skills, he says.

Girls hockey, Netten says, can be played as hard and rough as the boys play the game. One example he gave was a girl who played with the Tyke Novices of the boys' league two years ago. She was voted the most valuable defenseman on the team. Her name is Carolyn Grassy, and she has now graduated to the forward line of the Intermediate Girls' league.

Under the direction of coaches, Debbie Amos (Intermediates) and Dave Ward (Seniors), Netten says the teams are doing well and should have a good season.

Skaters testing

Figure skating is in full swing at the Memorial and Alcott arena, and kids of all ages are busy on the ice working towards skating badges.

With the help of seven professional helpers, amateur helpers and volunteer parents, children as young as four years old can start working on badges that are part of national skating tests.

The Beginners Test requirements consist of 1) skating the width of the rink without falling, 2) Forward skating and glide on two feet across the width of the rink, 3) Forward skating and glide on two feet then bending knees grasp outside ankles returning to a standing glide position, 4) Stopping - any skid stop (e.g. snowplow, side stop).

When the skaters pass ten badges, they are ready to advance to more difficult figures and oftentimes will compete at this stage.
