Christmas tour holiday party for seniors,

Tonight's the big night for Georgetown senior citizens, who are for the second consecutive year being treated to a tour of the community's home Christmas light displays and an entertaining holiday party afterward by the Kinsmen Club.

The Club is asking homeowners along a designated route to have their outside lights turned on between 7 and 9 p.m. for a passing perusal by the seniors, who will be accompanied on the excursion by Santa Claus himself.

After picking up tour participants at Moore Park plaza (in front of Trio Discount), the downtown Legion hall on Mill Street, Silver Creek Towers, Kincourt, the John Armstrong (Durham Street) apartments, the Sargent Road apartments, Delrex Smoke Shop and Preston's Variety in Glen

Williams, five charter buses provided by Tyler Travel will circulate among the following streets:

Campbell, Prince Charles, Windsor, Carole, Delrex, Rexway, Marilyn, Fulodon, Stockman, Irwin, Dawson, Danbridge, Greystone, Regan, Chelvin, Fagan, Rosefield, Baylor, Gairey, Weber, Raylawn, Sims, Duncan and Moultrie.

The buses, carrying an anticipated 200 seniors, will then proceed to St. Andrew's Church on Mountainview Road, where carollers and a host of volunteers and contributors have some special treats in mind for their guests. Several local businesses have donated prizes to be awarded for games planned at the occasion.

Additional information is available from Kinsmen Bob Malcolmson (877-2972) and Duke Webster (877-0716).

'Heeeeeere's Jack!'

"And now - heeeeeere's Jack!"

Well, Halton regional clerk Garfield Brown may not be introducing chairman Jack Raffis quite that way, but he will be opening each episode of a new television series designed to bring regional council into the living rooms of cable TV viewers throughout Halton.

Last week, three different cable companies, including Halton Cable Systems Ltd., which broadcasts in north Halton, recorded regional council's inaugural ceremony and opening session. If some viewer interest is shown, plans call for clerk Brown to open each unedited broadcast with the reading of the day's agenda.

Halton Hills town council may also get into the act, although broadcasts from the council chamber on Trafalgar Road seem unlikely. Instead, COUN. Harry Levy has expressed interest in producing a Halton Cable TV show from the studio that would feature other councillors and town staffers.

Halton Cable program director John Olivier, who provided liaison among the three TV companies broadcasting from regional headquarters, told The Herald that viewers can follow the proceedings: each Thursday once regular programming begins Jan. 7. Council sessions shown will be eight days old, having taken place the week previous to broadcast.

For their part, region officials are happy about having an opportunity to boost council's public profile and have agreed to provide special lighting for the TV cameras. Council's four-hour debate on sewer rates was recorded in its entirety Thursday.

You can tune into the inaugural session in a special broadcast beginning at 6 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) on Halton Cable 4. The sewer rate debate follows at 6:35.
