Report from Queen's Park

Conservative land plans under fire

By JULIAN REED, MPP

Halton-Burlington PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE

The Legislature's public accounts committee has recommended that the Ontario Government consider selling three huge landbanks acquired in the early 1970s "with little care for the costs involved".

In its annual report, the committee stated that the landbank purchases of South Cayuga, Townsend and Edwardsburgh were made without adequate planning and were improperly conducted.

Hearings into the purchases by the all party committee began last year. These were part of a continuing probe into the more than $622 million the province has banked for townships, industrial development and parks larger than 330 acres.

Public interest in the hearings increased when the former Treasurer John White testified that he decided one night while driving in the area to purchase both the Townsend and South Cayuga sites on Lake Erie because he dreamed of two cities there in the future. Also recommended by the committee: that any data collected by the Government through the use of public opinion polls be made public; that the government refuse to renegotiate contracts with consultants for prices above those quoted during tendering; that merit increases for civil servants be tied to exceptional performance, not merely adequate performance.

SOUTH CAYUGA

Almost a thousand angry citizens held a meeting in Dunnville to protest the government's selection of South Cayuga as a site for the disposal of liquid industrial waste. They told Donald Chant, Chairman of the Crown waste agency which is soon to be incorporated that they won't accept anything short of a full environmental hearing on the construction of the hazardous waste site. Dr. Chant promised to pass their message along to the Minister of the Environment.

White environmental assessment has been ruled out by the government, he vowed to resign his new post if the Environment Minister backed down on a public hearing into the technology and geology of the site, or went ahead with the site against the recommendations of the hearings of which he, Dr. Chant, will be chairman.

Meanwhile, at Queen's Park the Minister of the Environment has stated that he may hold off expropriating land for the proposed liquid industrial waste site until it is determined that the site is safe. But landowners will have to allow access to their properties for testing. According to ministry officials, ten or eleven properties will have to be expropriated and a plant for treating or solidifying wastes.

In the one-mile control area encompassing that are about 40 properties, which include about 25 homes where some 70 people live. Those living within the control zone but outside the buffer area will have the option of living there or selling to the government.

BUY CANADIAN!

Canadian jobs could be saved if the Ontario Government changed its rules on giving preference to buying Canadian-made goods rather than imports. The report suggests that figure could be raised to 15 or 20 per cent.
