Alberta's Rockies now offer world class facilities for the most adventurous skier

From world-class ski resorts to first-class family Rockies, Alberta's Canadian Rockies have something to tickle the toughest powder-hound's palate this year.

Combine an abundance of fluffy, dry snow with improved accommodation, and greatly enhanced facilities; lay it all end to end over 320 kilometres along the panoramic spine of the Canadian Rockies and Alberta's ski paradise begins to unfold for 1981.

Alberta has a variety of ski experiences - from helicopter-skiing to alpine to cross-country, set in breath-taking mountain vistas and distinctive snow-laden landscapes.

Five major alpine adventures challenge you, from Fortress Mountain in Manamansk Country through Banff's "Big Three" - Mount Norquay, Lake Louise, and Sunshine Village, to Jasper's Marmot Basin. Cross-country is big too, with trails in Kananaskis Country, Banff National Park, and Jasper National Park.

SUNSHINE VILLAGE
Skiers at Sunshine Village now ride in class with the completion of a 4710 metre-long gondola. Installed in 1979, the gondola eliminates the hair-raising shuttle bus service (said to be as thrilling as a romp through the "Bird Cage", one of Sunshine's more challenging runs).

The gondola provides 20 minute service between Sunshine's Bourgeau parking lot (22 kilometres north of the Banff townsite) and the ski area itself.

The single-lane access road has been converted into the "Canyon Ski-out," the area's longest run at 4831 metres (15,840 feet).

The Goat's Eye mid-station, housing the electronic drive for the entire gondola installation, is the key to a five-year expansion plan for Sunshine.

While this year skiers will not be able to disembark at Goat's Eye, the plans call for a restaurant and supporting facilities.

Goat's Eye Mountain, towering over the gondola mid-station at 2800 metres (9200 feet) will be the future site of two chairlifts and a T-bar which will generously supplement Sunshine's existing 26 runs featuring a whopping 1055 metres of vertical drop.

Sunshine's Great Divide (G.D.) Chairlift remains one of the most popular in all of Alberta. If as one writer put it, "rumor has it that the terminal attendant at the top of the G.D. Chair plays the harp," few could deny the uplifting nature of the towering peaks scattered about in all directions.

On the other hand, many feel closer to heaven than they ever thought possible as they gaze down the awesome runs stretching down Lookout Mountain from the top of the G.D. Chair.

But beyond its possibilities for individual "angst", the Great Divide is further reknowned for inter-provincial co-operation. Passengers begin their ascent in Alberta, pass through a part of British Columbia, before returning befuddled to "wild rose country" at the summit of Lookout Mountain.

Whatever your degree of ability, Sunshine offers a number of runs for skiers in every category, be it beginner, intermediate, or expert.

And the facilities are number one. Sunshine boasts the only on-hill accommodation in the national parks - the Sunshine Inn. New for this year is "Bruno's Bar", serving food and liquor, and featuring the mountain heritage of the area. Other amenities include a day-lodge, full dining facilities, a cocktail lounge, day-care, ski-school, rentals, and a well-stocked ski shop.

MOUNT NORQUAY
Mount Norquay, nearest to the Banff townsite of the "Big Three" ski areas in Banff National Park, is internationally recognized for its grilling expert runs and steep slopes.

But not to dissuade the beginner. Norquay has long gentle runs for perfecting that stance and an excellent ski school to back it up.

For the expert however, the challenge of Norquay lies in the "North American" and the "Bowl", two of the most difficult runs on the continent, and both used in past World Cup competitions.

As well as some of the best mogul areas, Norquay has 14 different runs spread over 123 acres and 732 metres of vertical drop.

Facilities here include a day lodge, rentals, ski-school, and ski shop. New for 1981 is the "Cliffhouse" restaurant at the top of the Norquay Chair, offering one of Banff's most scenic views to whet the appetite.

With its enviable location overlooking Banff, a scant five kilometres down the road, Norquay is unsurpassed for ready access to the slopes, superb accommodation of all kinds, a number of culinary delights (manifested in the gourmet and ethnic restaurants in town), and for insomniacs, a night-life totally out of proportion to a Banff-sized town.

LAKE LOUISE
Last but certainly not least in Banff National Park lies Canada's largest ski area - Lake Louise. The biggest of the "Big Three" boasts skiing on three mountains, Whittorn, Plarnigan, and Temple, 34 runs covering 35 miles and 975 metres of vertical drop.

And there's more - 17 square miles of skiing terrain with thousands of acres of open-slope, bowl, mogul fields, and gladed timberline skiing. Slope difficulty is approximately 24 per cent beginner, 32 per cent intermediate, and 44 per cent advanced.

With this much area, Lake

Louise can truly meet all tastes and expectations. For experts however, the alpine bowl and powder areas are undoubtedly a highlight.

Lake Louise facilities include two day-lodges, a cocktail lounge, licensed dining-room, babysitting service, ski shop, rentals, and a ski school.
