

MAKING HEADLINES

"Headlining" the visitors who stopped by The Herald Friday morning was this group of students from Glen Williams Public School. About 31 youngsters participated in the tour of The Herald's pressroom, and composing and business offices, learning how the Wednesday newspaper and its Friday edition are put together from start to finish. Herald reporter Chris Anjaard (above) demonstrated the use of one of the photo-typesetting machines used in the offset printing process.

Chairmanships lost in committee shuffle

Last week's meetings of regional committees (the decision-making bodies through which councillors discuss and prepare recommendations for council) were noticeably different from previous sessions held almost bi-weekly since 1974.

Closely following recommendations made in a recent study on the region's administration and political structure, the committee have been streamlined from six to two main planning committees and an administrative or decision-making body.

Joining Halton Hills councillors Dave Whiting and Mike Armstrong on the revamped health and social services committee are Oakville councillors Carol Gooding (chairman), Fred Oliver, Burlington reps Walter Mulkevic (vice-chairman), Dave Lacombe and Vern Connell and Milton Coun. Brad Clements.

On the combined public works and planning committee

Halton Hills Coun. Roy Booth steps down as chairman to serve under the leadership of Milton Coun. Bill Johnson. Other representatives on the committee are Oakville's Ann Mulvale (vice-chairman), Terry Mannell and Keith Bird, and Burlington Mayor Roly Bird and fellow councillors Pat McLaughlin and Ted MacDonald.

While serving as a member of all committees, regional chairman Jack Raftis assumes the chairmanship of the new administration and finance committee from which Halton Hills Mayor Pete Pomeroy, its former head, steps down. Also serving on the committee are Halton Hills Coun. Russ Miller, Oakville's Gord Reade, Harry Barrett, Milton Mayor Gord Krantz and Burlington councillors Joan Allingham, Steve Toth and Jim Grieve. The acting regional chairman of council, a position which rotates on a monthly basis, will serve as vice-chairman of the committee.

Accidents abound

Halton Hills has been the scene of a number of motor accidents recently. Two-car crashes occurred and a lady was hit by a car on Mountainview Road South receiving minor injuries April 25. About $4,000 damage was the result of a car hitting a parked vehicle on Prince Charles Drive in Georgetown. The other April 25 accident happened at the corner of Queen Street and Churchill Road in Acton, when a vehicle went through a stop sign to hit a car broadside, resulting in $2,000 damage. On Sideroad 15, at the Fifth Line, $3,000 damage resulted from a car hitting a tree Sunday. A single car lost control on Winston Churchill

Boulevard at Sideroad 17 with $3,000 damages and minor injuries to the driver April 28. Thursday at 1 a.m., a motorcycle was totalled when it missed a curve on the Tenth Line at Sideroad 17.

Newsbin raids

Two Georgetown juveniles were charged with numerous thefts of money from the Toronto daily newspaper boxes in Georgetown April 22. Constable Alex Fishbein and the department's Youth Bureau made the arrest after several months' investigation, estimating losses at $10 per box.
