Strange things happen 'neath the midnight sun and at the bridge table.

When the players at the Georgetown Bridge Club experienced this hand all but one table played the hand in the expected fashion. One table, however, succeeded in bidding and playing 4 spades in the North-South direction for a top. Can you find the line? This was the hand:

The Hand:
The North-South winners for this week were Arthur Kwel and Brian Ayer with second going to Helen Fleming and Harry Arbie and third place was held by Bob Clarke and Joe Maurer.

East-West winners were Ruth Acker and Sue Sullivan. Second place went to Bob Dickson and Gundy Kistemaker and third to Fred Allen and Gus Flesch.

Come and earn a free game in the cool comfort of the bridge club. The club meets every Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. sharp at the Legion in Georgetown.

West's 1 H opening will give North a problem. A mere overall does not do justice to his holding. A double has the disadvantage of describing length in clubs and shortness in hearts, but the hand is of sufficient strength to correct partner's expected club bid to diamonds.

After the auction W-1 N, N-dbl, E-Pass, S-2 C, West will have no call. North can correct to 2 D and will probably play it there, although West may venture 2 H call which will go down only one with careful play.

North, as the declarer in a diamond partscore, will probably take 10 tricks with a club lead or 11 with a heart lead and continuation.

Museum tour for area W.I.

Herald Special
The ladies of the Nassagaweya Women's Institute combined their monthly meeting June 30 at the Halton Regional Museum with an enjoyable tour and tea.

Many regrets were expressed by the ladies who had not visited this landmark before. The manicured grounds, well displayed exhibits and beautifully maintained buildings proved a treat to explore. It was especially exciting to learn of Nassagaweya in yesteryear.

October will be a busy month for the ladies of Nassagaweya and this June meeting was the first of many planning sessions to be held before their Homefest which takes place Oct. 10.

The purpose of the Homefest will be to share with the community the varied goals of the Women's Institute and the many exciting projects the Institute has been involved in over the past year. Craft, harvest, plant and white elephant tables will be included as well as displays by local artisans.

A sad farewell was expressed to the First Vice President, Jillian Cato, who leaves with her family in mid July to return to live in Whitefish, a small community outside Sudbury. Jillian has been nursing at Georgetown Hospital for the past year and will be missed by her many friends.

Are you NEW TO TOWN, or have you just moved into a new home?????
