Jaycees assist young farmers

Will a young Halton Hills farmer become one of the winners in the "W.R. Motherwell" award for outstanding achievement in a national agriculture competition this year?

The Georgetown Jaycees certainly hope so. Joining their national organization, the Bank of Montreal, the Calgary Stampede Board and Cominco Ltd. (fertilizers), they're promoting an exciting cross-Canada "Outstanding Young Farmers" (OYF) challenge for farmers who make at least two-thirds of their annual income from agriculture.

The program, according to a Cominco press release, is designed to increase "awareness of our young farmers and agriculture in general", promote understanding between urban and rural communities and recognize farmers who have particularly excelled in their areas of agricultural endeavor.

Farmers between the ages of 18 and 40 (as long as their 40th birthday fell after Jan. 1) are eligible to enter the competition of which winners will be named during the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Board's "Round-up 1991", Oct. 31 and Nov. 4. Local winners will receive a trophy donated by Georgetown's Murt Allison Equipment Company Ltd.

To qualify, a candidate for the local level of competition must have the OYF form completed by a nominator or the local Jaycee chairman. Successful candidates will then vie for top honors at the regional level (the Jaycees regional territory and not the regional municipality of Halton). Halton Hills farmers will compete in the Great Lakes region, while their counterparts in the rest of the country will be meeting in any of six Jaycee regions.

Having surpassed the regional hurdle, OYF competitors need to add to their competition forms, this time including financial statements outlining farm activities over the past year, three eight-inch by 10-inch photographs of the farmer in portrait pose and at work and 30 developed color slides of the farm operation.

A large chunk of the competition's evaluation will be based on the progress the entrant has made toward pursuing an agricultural career. There will also be a thorough examination of soil, water and energy conservation practice, crop or livestock production history and contributions to the community, the province and even the nation.

Once farmers reach the finals, oral reviews will be conducted and a judgement made on the submitted financial statements.

The "Motherwell" award has been established in honour of a former Canadian agricultural minister, Dr. William Richard Motherwell, who held the post from 1921 to 1930. Dr. Motherwell, a Perth, Ontario native, was also Saskatchewan's agriculture minister between 1905 and 1918. He died in 1943 at the age of 83.

All entry forms for this unique competition must be submitted by midnight Sept. 5. Participants or people who wish to nominate someone to compete should contact Ron Starret, 877-6964.
