Tom Ramautarsingh, Georgetown community worker and high school teacher, has been re-elected to the Senate of Wilfrid Laurier University of Waterloo.

The University Senate makes recommendations to the Board of Governors regarding policy and finance, assists in ratifying appointments and promotions and recommends to the Chancellor of the University students who have fulfilled the requirements for degrees. Most of the discussions and decisions deal with the academic well-being of the university.

Senate meetings are held at the Paul Martin Centre, named after the former WLU chancellor who served as Canadian High Commissioner to the U.K. and led the Senate of the Canadian Parliament.

Mr. Ramautarsingh has served as secretary on the Senate's Students' Appeals Committee for three years and on many local, regional and provincial organizations. He received his B.A. (English and History) from WLU and his M.A. (History) from the University of Toronto.

Mr. Ramautarsingh also serves on the WLU Board of Governors, was chairman of the successful "I Love Georgetown" programme and chaired the High School Commencement Committee.

Water servicing reviewed

Regional council may yet reverse a March 18 decision calling for individual water meters in low-rise residential and industrial complexes.

The review of the region's "multiple unit servicing policy," endorsed at last Wednesday's council meeting was prompted by two developers' concerns that they were providing space for rent, rather than purchase, and that single meters should be installed in rented buildings.

One developer, Cherrytree Ltd., is currently constructing a low-rise industrial complex on Guelph Street in Georgetown. The other, George Wimpey Ltd., is planning a similar facility in Burlington. Speaking before councillors last week, Wimpey representative Colin Gilie maintained that the region's present servicing policy could become "inflexible" by not discriminating between renting space in a residential, industrial or commercial complex and buying it in a condominium development.

"The region apparently wants to pre-designate where the water meters will be installed," Mr. Gilie said. "This leaves the user in a lurch."

Small businessmen are particularly sensitive to rental rates in today's depressed economy, he added, and they may be inclined to locate elsewhere if they have to pay water rates higher than their rent. Most of the businesses expected to move into the Wimpey project are likely to be low water consumers, drawing for washroom facilities.

But, Mr. Gilie said, a separate meter could be installed for industries which use a lot of water. Through an agreement with the region, additional metering would become the responsibility of the builder.

The agreement would also include a clause which would compel future buyers planning to turn such complexes into condominiums to individually service each unit.

Although the region's public works and planning committee will review the policy over the next few weeks, complexes currently installing water services will have to abide by the policy.

Deer hunt set for Nov. 2-5

The province's ministry of natural resources has formally announced plans for the area's second annual controlled deer hunt, scheduled for Nov. 2 to 5.

The area of the hunt, in which 685 hunters will participate, includes the northern two-thirds of Halton region as well as Puslinch, Flamborough and South Dumfries townships.

According to the ministry, 75 per cent of the special permits issued following a lottery to be held late next month will be allocated to residents of the hunt area. In addition, farmers and landowners who reside on a minimum of 50 acres are automatically eligible for a permit in the zone in which they live.

Shotguns and muzzle-loaders are the only allowable firearms which may be used and dogs are not permitted.

Permits to be attached to a 1981 Ontario Resident or Farmer's Deer licence are valid for only one of the five hunt zones, are not transferrable and entitle the holder to only one deer, with or without antlers.

During the hunt in 1980, a total of 128 deer were harvested. Overall hunter success was approximately one deer per six hunters. Although both shotguns and muzzle-loaders were permissible firearms during the hunt, 95 per cent of the hunters used shotguns.

Trespass is illegal. Hunters must contact landowners well before the season begins to ensure they have permission to hunt on private land; should a landowner experience a trespass incident he has the following alternatives:

- 1) If the land is posted against trespass or protected under the Trespass Act, call the local police department. They will respond as soon as possible and trespass charges will be laid if warranted and if the landowner desires there is no need to approach the hunter in this situation.
- 2) If the land is not posted and not protected under the Trespass Act, verbal notice must be given to the trespasser. If he does not leave, the police or the ministry can then be notified. If verbal notice is not given, no charges can be laid. Copies of the Trespass Act are available from:

Publications Centre, 5th Floor, 880 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario, M7A 1N8. Communications Officer, Ministry of the Attorney General, 18th Floor, 18 King Street East, Toronto, Ontario, M5C 1C5.

Persons who are not farmers or landowners of 50 or more acres, in the controlled hunt zones can obtain applications for the draw at the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Cambridge after September 1. Deadline for hunters' applications is Sept. 25. The draw will be held during the week of Sept. 28 and successful hunters will be mailed their controlled hunt stamps by Oct. 9.

The kitchen provides a step-saving work triangle configuration, generous countertop space and abundant cupboard storage. A casual snack-bar counter divides the kitchen and dinette areas, although the dinette area is large enough to be furnished with a full dining suite. A spacious family room is sunken two risers from the kitchen-dinette complex. It features an energy-efficient zero-clearance fireplace and wide, sliding glass doors leading onto the lower level balcony. This area provides for a side-by-side configuration of washer-tub-dryer, a wide laundry folding counter and linen storage closet, and space for the furnace and hot water tank. An entrance from the two-car garage encourages the development of the mud room facility to the opposite side. Access to the spacious un-developed area is via short stairway from the utility area.
A two-place vanity is positioned centrally to all lower level areas.
All three bedrooms are positioned on the upper level, accessible via half-stairway from the central hallway off the living room.
