Still places left on Rug Hookers' wall hanging

 raising scheme, made possible by The Georgetown Rug Hookers' offer to hook up to two 50-name rugs, jumped considerably this week with the addition of 13 names and total donations-pledges in excess of $3,000.
 Doreen Long, who is heading up the team of rug hookers, and Elizabeth Shore, president of Halton Hills Arts Council which is co-sponsoring the fund-raising drive, said the decision whether to proceed with a second rug hanging will depend entirely upon public response.
 "The next two to three weeks when the public finally get to see inside the new library and theatre will likely determine the level of interest," said an HHAAC member. "If people like what they see - and we feel confident they will - then perhaps many more will want to be a permanent part of the new facility, literally being 'hooked into history'."

 The latest name-space purchasers are: Jessie Shorthill - In Memory Clarence Walters, Jack and Betty Pickup, Marg and Ron Davies, Jessie M.
