

Gov't helps snowmobilers

"With winter tourism on the increase," said Ross Edmonstone, director, Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, "it is tremendously encouraging to receive government support for snowmobile public trail-building programs in Ontario."

Edmonstone was commenting on a meeting held between members of the OFSC and the Honourable Alan Pope, Minister of Natural Resources, who asked that all recognized snowmobile trail building clubs make application immediately to their local ministry offices for initial funding to begin their winter trails program.

In a report recently submitted to Queen's Park it was noted there are approximately 224,000 snowmobilers in operation in Ontario today with these same snowmobilers in operation in Ontario today with these same snowmobilers spending in excess of $34,720,000 on trips, outings, restaurants, lodging and entertainment.

Edmonstone went on to say, "The sport of snowmobiling has made tremendous progress in Canada over the past decade. The province of Quebec now has over 35,000 miles of groomed and maintained snowmobile trails, and, although Ontario has less than 10,000 miles of maintained snowmobile trail miles presently, we are rapidly catching up."

This involvement between government ministries, local M.P.P.'s volunteer snowmobile workers and businessmen working with winter tourism in Ontario, is an excellent example of co-operation to take advantage of one of Canada's true renewable resources, snow!

A budget will be established, identifying costs involved with the trail program by the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs and submitted to the Minister of Natural Resources by November of this year.

Separate schools compete in Halton finals

Sixteen schools competed in the junior category. St. Joseph's Separate School in Acton had a number of runners complete the course in fine form. For the girls, Joanne Porter was eighth, Rochelle Christie was ninth, Lori Beaton, thirteenth and Paul Poulton was 26th.

The boys team saw John and Peter Delisle finish in 15th and 20th respectively. John is 10 years old while Peter is eight.

Competing for Ecole Sacre Coeur was only one student due to a church bazaar and a hockey tournament. However, Norma Shields, 11, performed well in her age division, placing fourteenth.
