

BIRTHDAY PLANS FOR 2ND GEORGETOWN

Tommy Beddoe, Shane and Steven Curran, Allan Fudge, Raymond Gils, Jay Kerslake, Justin MacDonald, Sean Murphy, Jeff and Richard Nipper, Simon Patterson, Ryan Robinson, Jamie Rutherford, Mark Shultis, Jason Turner, Ian Vini, Chris Westcott-Toms, and Jan Wilkes.

CLEAN-UP TIME!

It was the Eighth Georgetown Cubs' turn to live up to Scouting's commitment to keep Highway 7 clean of debris between Maple Avenue and Rexway Drive. They did so enthusiastically Saturday, no doubt spurred on by the promise of a free hamburger and soft drink from McDonald's Restaurant, which encourages the semi-annual clean-ups. Cub leader Carl Rooth supervised the excursion as well as helping out litter-pickers Erick Abulnar, Sean Gutstini, Sandy Jobin-Bevans, Jimmy Lawrence and Glen Osatchuk.

Seek UN job, MP McDermid tells Trudeau

By SEAN FINLEY
Ottawa Bureau
Of The Herald

Prime Minister Trudeau won applause by both sides of the House of Commons Thursday when he took a bow after Brampton-Georgetown MP John McDermid suggested he resign and run for the position of UN Secretary General.

The Tory backbencher noted that the vote to allow Kurt Waldheim an unprecedented third term as secretary general has been rejected creating an impasse at the U.N. that must be rectified.

"Canada has the answer...it was a tough decision to make but I decided Canada must come first," he declared.

Mr. McDermid presented MPs with a resolution suggesting Mr. Trudeau place his name in nomination and resign as prime minister "so that this great country will have a fighting chance to survive economically, socially and united from coast to coast".

Hansard reporters recorded at least one MP as denying the motion and unanimous consent necessary to open debate on the proposal.

Jelinek fails to stop postal rate increase

From the Ottawa Bureau
Of The Herald

Halton MP Otto Jelinek has failed in a bid to have Parliament reverse a decision to increase postal rates in the new year.

Mr. Jelinek predicted last week in the House of Commons that the increase to 30 cents for first class letters "will not only contribute to our growing inflation rate but will also adversely affect the small business sector, jeopardize the viability of direct mail service and cause hardship to the many Canadians who are already over-taxed."

The Tory MP presented the Commons with a resolution demanding immediate reduction of the rate increase to "a realistic level" and action to correct inefficient postal operations which have resulted in regular post office deficits.

However, the motion was defeated on an oral vote when it failed to win unanimous consent necessary before the subject could be introduced for debate.

Concerned over economy?

Canadians for Economic Fairness will hold their second meeting on high mortgage and interest rates and related issues tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in Milton's E.C. Drury School on Highway 25. Formed by Milton, Burlington, Oakville and Lynden residents Sept. 23, the CEEF plan to discuss ways of dealing with high rates tonight. The group has also invited area MPs and MPPs and the leaders of all three major federal parties to attend an open forum Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Burlington's M.M. Robinson High School. Contact Larry Reid (878-1744) or Debby Russell (878-1517) for more information.
