

Local YMCA thanks donors' unselfishness

By JOHN WOOD
Y Director

For the past 15 years, the Georgetown and District YM-YWCA has been serving this community and the surrounding area. In the area of social service and leisure, it continues to respond to citizen input so that any needs might be fulfilled.

As a "not for profit" organization, the local 'Y' has had to rely on financial support from various social service clubs, individuals, and business in Georgetown. Many of our supporters have assisted for a number of years, while others have just recently been made aware of our high quality services.

In a time of high unemployment and skyrocketing interest rates, there remain those dedicated believers in the Georgetown District YM-YWCA who have found it within their means to support us again this year.

We, the volunteers and staff of the Georgetown 'Y', wish to recognize and thank the following individuals, groups, and business who have given support from June to December, 1981:

E. F. Arnold, Baltimore Alrcou of Canada, Barber and Henley Ltd., Blue Triangle Club, Curwood Packaging Ltd., Glen Knitting Mills, H. Hill, Miss G. Hoskin, Kinetic Club of Georgetown, Hester Blaney, Varian of Canada Inc.

TREASURE TRIP FOR TWO

The coveted winners of a trip for two to Palm Beach, Florida, were at the Herald office Friday to pick up their travel folder. At the presentation were (left to right) Bill and Marg Gage, lucky winners of the week-long holiday, Murray and Sophie Henley of Barber and Henley Travel in Georgetown, where the winning ballot was dropped, and Herald publisher Paul Taylor. The prize was part of The Herald's "Treasure Tours" promotion.

Despite the extreme cold wintry weather there was a fair attendance at the annual meeting of the hall board Sunday afternoon.

Among those present were Jo Schneider, representing Erin township council, and Coun. Russ Miller from Halton Hills.

The new slate of officers elected are:
Chairman — John Loughnan, Secretary — Pat Loughnan, Public Relations — Marlene Burnett, Treasurer — Dave Walker, Maintenance — Jim Baily, Entertainment — Grant Cassily, Members at Large — Paul Metcalfe, Jean Lorrinman and Gerry Bergan.

A large gathering of friends and neighbors met at the Community Centre Saturday evening in honor of Sharon and John Kanusek. This young couple have made many friends in the neighborhood since they moved to the Eighth Line.

Norval

Village's loss

By KAY WILSON
Herald Correspondent

Norval area people were saddened this past week to learn of the death of Graydon Chester of Norval RR 1.

He had been in ill health for several years, but still maintained a cheerful outlook, and took a keen personal interest in all community activities.

The Chesters had retired several years ago to a new home on their farm located at the northwest corner of Slide-road 10 and the Eighth Line.

In June, 1977, they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the farm home where their son Howard and his family now live. Farming was Graydon's life and he took a lot of pride in his farm work. Like most farmers, he had a deep respect for the good earth.

He was a member of the Masonic Order, as well as a strong supporter of the Georgetown Agricultural Society. His many friends and neighbors extend their sincere sympathy to his wife Gladys, daughter Jean (Mrs. Jack May), son Howard, both of Norval, five grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The funeral was held Thursday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Ian MacPherson conducting the service at the McClure Jones Funeral Home, Georgetown. A Masonic Service was held Wednesday night.

Interment was in Hillcrest cemetery in Norval. Unit 2 of Norval United Church met at the home of Kathy Blair last Wednesday evening with Betty Johnson presiding. Gwen Laidlaw and Alleen Nixon had the devotional. Plans were made for the coming year.

Lunch was served by the hostess and social hour enjoyed.

Norval euchre had 8 tables in play. Prize winners were: Muriel Miller, Mae Tost, Doug McMillan and Rosa Snow. Lorne Taggart: lone hands. Vivian Shaw: lucky draw.

Lunch was served by Muriel Miller, Sadie Davidson and Edith Ditchfield.

Limehouse Weather cancels euchre

By MRS. A. W. DENTON
Herald Correspondent

We extend sympathy to Douglas Scott, family and other relatives in the passing of Mrs. Scott, nee Florence Coleman, Saturday.

Mrs. Roughley and Miss Brigham are home after a few weeks in the West. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Rob Roughley and little daughter in Edmonton and friends in Vancouver. They found the weather so unpleasant in Vancouver that they returned earlier than they had planned.

The bad weather of Jan. 13 spelled failure for the W. I. euchre but we hope for better weather for one Jan. 27.

Limehouse neighborhood was without hydro last Wednesday morning for two hours when a car slid against a hydro pole near the store, snapping it off.

Church services were withdrawn at Limehouse Sunday morning due to the heavily drifted roads. However snow plows were at work very early to make roads passable.

ABOUT THE HILLS

Cancer unit on the move

The Halton Hills unit of the Canadian Cancer Society is on the move. As of Jan. 23, our new location will be at 184 Guelph St., Suite 2 (the former Fobert real estate office).

The phone number remains the same, 877-1124. The unit feels this new location will be more convenient for the patients to whom we provide services, the volunteers and the residents of Halton Hills and will provide the activity group with a display area for their many beautiful hand crafted articles.

Hospice forum tomorrow

The North Halton Hospice Care Interest Group will hold a public forum tomorrow (Thursday) at Trinity United Church in Acton, examining the role of nurses and volunteers in caring for the terminally ill and their families. Guest speakers will be Pat Nash, a volunteer co-ordinator at Grace Hospital, and Jean Murphy, head nurse in the palliative care unit at Grace. Everyone is welcome to attend at the Mill Street church hall.

Blaze prompts reminder

An improperly installed fireplace is believed to be the cause of a fire that caused extensive interior damage to a Park Street home in Glen Williams Monday. Deputy fire chief Bob Hyde estimated the damage to the home to be about $10,000. There were no injuries in the early morning blaze. Mr. Hyde warns the public to exercise extra caution in their use of wood burning stoves and fireplaces.

Hide House Sundays

While Halton regional officials are preparing guidelines for businesses which want to remain open Sundays, Acton's Old Hide House will likely have its exemption from the province's Retail Business Holidays Act extended until June. Regional council is expected to pass a bylaw this afternoon (Wednesday) similar to legislation passed a year ago allowing the leather goods business to remain open Sundays. Guidelines are expected to state tourist attractions which would be exempted from the Act and the Hide House (along with the community's Leathersmith Association), hope to serve tourists coming to Acton on buses from northeastern U.S.

Salary boost irks rep

In an age when businesses and individuals are being told by government to cut back on spending, Coun. Harry Levy, the town's finance committee chairman doesn't like the idea of giving the town's non-unionized employees a 12 per cent salary increase. Coun. Levy was the only town rep who voted against the raise Monday night, noting that some employees will also get a three or four per cent merit increase. Councillors discussed the proposed increase during a closed session last week and Coun. Levy told The Herald Monday night that he thought other councillors shared his viewpoint following that meeting. However, he said, council's decision may make it harder for the town to deal with its unionized employees during future negotiations.

CORRECTIONS

A story published in The Herald's Jan. 8 Weekend Extra incorrectly stated that the Acton Lions Club was considering a proposal to administer activities at the old Acton town hall, should the structure be renovated. In fact, the club is tentatively considering an administrative role regarding the Acton firehall adjacent to the town hall, should civic officials decide to move the Acton fire department to the current hydro building, as has also been proposed. The same story also incorrectly identified the club's past president and current secretary, Vince Whelan, as its president. In fact, Bob Bradley is the current Acton Lions president. The Herald regrets the errors.

The Herald's new business feature about Acton's Country Gentleman in last Wednesday's issue contained incorrect cost estimates. The article stated that the propane tank used in the business' conversion process costs from $1,000 to $1,500 and additional parts about $650. In fact, all necessary equipment costs about $1,200, labor included. The Herald regrets the error.
