

Clowns and canines on Canada Day

Over hill, over dale - no obstacle appeared insurmountable as youngsters delved into the steeple chase during Glen Williams' Canada Day celebrations Thursday afternoon. There was excellent weather for this year's events and crowds rewarded organizers' efforts by turning out by the hundreds to take part in or watch all the fun. It was especially

The Pine Valley Squares provided dancing entertainment Thursday night as Canada Day celebrations in the Glen sped past the supper hour and into the night. The group, which is busy with a recruitment drive, practises modern square dancing, stressing that it is an excellent way of getting into and staying in physical shape.

Well over 100 youngsters returned home from Canada Day activities in Glen Williams Thursday bearing greasepaint clown faces. The art work was done by members of the town's summer program staff and later in the afternoon the kids lined up for a Herald photo, after which three clown-face winners were selected.

Batons in hand, the Halton Hills Elkettes strutted their stuff for Canada Day. Under the warm sun's rays, the young girls in their matching leotards didn't feel cold at all. Shorts, shirt sleeves and sun visors were the order of the day for a national holiday that spelled the beginning of a lovely sunny warm weekend.

Who's got time to clown around when the competition was as tough as it was during the watermelon seed spitting contest at Glen Williams' Canada Day celebration? Among the many youngsters - some sporting greasepaint - vying for the championship, was eight-year old Susanne Trustum.

The winner of the side of beef in the lucky draw made during Thursday's Canada Day party and sponsored by St. Alban's Men's Breakfast Club of Glen Williams, was Alvin Geleve of Terra Cotta, holding ticket number 447.

Dressed in a gaily-patterned bonnet and flowing pioneer dress, "Rosie", owned by Sonia Le Turner, was declared the "paws down", best-dressed dog in the Canada Day pet competitions. Events Thursday also included a cat show in which feline contestants were judged on such criteria as "longest whiskers", "longest tail", the "biggest" and the "blackest". Dogs were also put through their paces to establish which was the "best trained" animal.

Tongue lolling in delight, this pooch seems quite pleased with things at the dog show held during Glen Williams' Canada Day festivities. Siberian Kennels of Georgetown doled out prizes for winners and participants alike.
