Contest bait for anglers

The annual fishing contest of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters is still looking for entries.

The closing date is Nov. 30 and the entries are greater than last year over the same period. Of course there are no entries in the Coho category, as bigger fish are generally caught in the fall months. The big thing is to get an entry form and if you qualify, get your entry certifled and mailed to the Federation. Lots of prizes, and plenty of categories. The Ministry of Natural resources has purchased 113,400 trout from private hatcheries, to replace ones lost due to disease at the Normandale hatchery last year.

The fish will be stocked in public fishing areas and the Normandale hatchery will be concentrating on wild stocks of fish.

This augurs well for the fishery in heavily fished areas, and the wild stocks should fare better in our streams and rivers.

DEER HUNT Closing date for application for an antierless deer permit is July 31st. Hunters hoping to bag an antierless deer this fall in areas where there are no controlled hunts must ensure that their applications are received by the MNR before July 31st. The Ministry has stated that even with the harsh winter, population levels in central and southern Ontario justified increases in tag allotments for many areas.

BASS FISHING TIP: When fishing the weeds, try a Johnson Silver Minnow. One trick that puts more bass on the end of my line when fishing the "minnow" is to paint the underside (opposite the hook) a solid black. Hint number two (talk about value, two tips for the price of one). Place a marker wherever you see good structure. If you pass over it in your boat, drop a floating marker, and fish it on the way back. The fish will be settled down by then, and should hit well.

Take a reading from three directions of shore features or landmarks. Or mark a chalk line on the side of the boat.

I use a Blue Fox "Pinpoint" marker that has a built in weight and line control. Highly visible too. The Pinpoint marker has reflective tape one-inch wide for easy location at night. Great for ski slalom courses too, just don't ski where I am fishing. FILM TIPS:

Or photo tips if you wish. To get the best vacation and fishing pictures buy a good film such as Kodak. Stick with one kind for consistant results. When ready to take the picture, "s-q-u-o-e-z-e" the shutter (or button) to make sure there is no blurr to your photo.

Take a careful look through the viewfinder to make sure the most important parts of the shot are in the "frame". Choose your background carefully, you don't want hydro poles sticking out of a friend's head. Some pictures are better without people, and vice versa.

Whatever, a "frontal subject" should enhance your shot. Flash is the most misunderstood part of photography. Many flashes go no farther than eight feet. But, they do fill in on some shots in daylight.

Try using a flash to remove shows from faces etc. As with all other aspects of the outdoors, photography advice is free, just contact me care of The Herald, or by phone at convenient times.

Racing's high cost

discourages Jon

Herald Special

Winning the first round of the Canadlan National Dirt Bike champlonships in Belleville two weeks ago should have been a happy moment for Georgetown's Jon Corn-

But the veteran dirttracker is getting discouraged with the enormous costs of racing in Canada and he might not compete for the rest of the National Bike champlonship rounds.

The two other races are being held in Alberta and British Columbia in August. Cornwell doesn't think he can afford to go out to compete in them -which means that he won't be holding the number one plate next

"It's really a shame," Jon said, "and I feel badly about it, mostly because of my sponsors. But I'd have to take a minimum of three weeks off to do it." The veteran biker said the two races are held on successive weekends and you have to allow about 48 hours driving at each end.

The prize money isn't good and the expenses of going out there, staying, and the loss of wages make it a losing proposition, even if you win every class, which isn't likely, Cornwell said. "I'm carrying a very heavy debt load this year, paying for two new bikes and trying to be competitlve at the U.S. National Championship level doesn't come cheaply," Cornwell sald. For instance, tires are about $70 U.S. apiece and you can expect to use two or three at any of the pro races, he said.

EXPENSIVE "I've had to do a lot of work on the Harley and that's expensive too -- in fact we don't really want to add it up -- it just makes me sick," Cornwell said.

The Georgetown native said he brought home a total of $462 from Belleville. If he'd managed to win all three classes the total would have been just over $600 he estimates.

"I've paid out $500 in labor charges for muchine work on the Harley motor - stuff we couldn't do ourselves. I hate to say it, but I can't afford to race in Canada," Cornwell sald.

Members of the Georgetown T-ball Angels are like any other ball club, young or old: they like to ham it up in the dug out, helping to relieve some of that game tension. For many baseball players in Halton Hills, T-ball is the first step taken in the game and most of the youngsters harbor aspirations of one day moving through little league clubs to eventually play on the senior squads.

ed as the man sought for the president's job. Kentner, a well known hockey man in town, most recently was general manager to the Georgetown Chrysler Raider hockey club who won the Canadian Intermediate A champlonships last April.

Mike Ross would be considered as Director of Planning and Liason under the new league. The Director of Finance position would be considered for Ian Ward while Gord Stewart would be considered for Director of Operations. Tom Davidson would look after the Directorship concerning officials while the Director of Hockey position to be considered would go to John Chantler.

The group of six directors combines some well-known and wellrespected hockey people from both executives.

Considered for the Senior Convenor's job is Bill Hawkins (looking after Juvenile, Midget and Bantam), while the Junior Convenor's job would be considered for Tony Chlovitti (Peewee, Atom and Tyke-Novice). Sue Dunning would be considered for the Recreatlonal Convenor's position (girls hockey and non-contact hockey.)

The new step should come within the next four weeks. The Tri-County executive has decided they are willing to try joining forces. It is now up to the GDMHA to hold a general meeting and vote "Yes". However, the GDMHA constitution regulres that two weeks notice be given to its members.

At the wickets

est score this year. Jahoor and Ashley Windsor came together and pushed the score to 73 when Jahoor, playing one of his best innings this season, was bowled by a full toss for 16 runs.

K. Ramnarine joined Windsor and together they scored freely taking the score to 95 before Ramnarine was out while attempting a lofty bit. Windsor battled through the remainder of the innings and ran out of partners, scoring 22 runs not out when the last wicket fell at 129 runs.

With two hours left for play, Cambridge decided to play safely and dld not attempt to go for the runs. When stumps were drawn they had lost five of their wickets for 106 runs and the game ended in a tame draw.

Georgetown B will play at home against Milton B next Saturday while the

"A" team will play at Milton on Sunday, against Milton A. This game will commence at 1:00 p.m. sharp as will all the other games during August and September.
