

OPENING UP A 'HOPE CHEST'

Many local residents are already familiar with The Hope Chest on Georgetown's Wesleyan Street, but officially, the store was opened last week. Owned by Linda Ryan (right), the store specializes in Christian books and records and also carries a varied supply of gifts, wedding items and cards. Pictured with employee Mary Ballie, Mrs. Ryan took over the store (formerly the Georgetown Christian Bookstore) June 8. If you need a gift idea for Thanksgiving or are already thinking about Christmas, The Hope Chest might be a good place to start shopping.

If you're looking for a challenge, the North Halton Volunteer Centre has a place for you. Our fall campaign for volunteers is now under way. We have some very interesting, non-traditional types of volunteer jobs available. Read on and see how you can become involved in your community.

A sharp, mature person is needed to help give a life skills course and a follow-up employment search course to a group of young people. If you can think and react quickly, this may be the challenge you've been looking for.

An activity co-ordinator is needed for an active group of seniors. Run meetings, arrange outings, plan entertainment and dinners. If you can handle this type of administrative work, give us a call.

Several very active groups are looking for administrators who want to get involved with working committees. If you have a background in publicity, finance, fund-raising or general administration, your talents are needed now.

Teachers, tutors, if you have time on your hands, you're needed to help share your reading and writing skills with a group of young adults.

These are only a few of the opportunities that are available now at your Volunteer Centre. For more information, call us at 877-3219.
