

Basketball girls dump Perdue

By PAM DOUGLAS
Herald Correspondent
The second official game of the season for the Rebel girls' basketball team was a runaway game against Perdue last Thursday.

Michelle Michm scored 27 points for Georgetown's senior girls and Lisa Allen helped out with 10 points of her own. The final score was 47-25.

Joanne Bingham, who injured her ankle in the Rebels' last game, was on the court Thursday, but Cindy Pettybone, who wrenched her knee in the last game, is expected to be out for another two weeks or so.

Georgetown coach Miss Smye said that the Rebels are more experienced than Perdue and this contributed to their win. Perdue brought only eight players to the game.

High school sports

Although it was an easy game, she said, the girls did not slack off nor did they run up the score.

After losing their first game of the season to Acton two weeks ago 37-22, Georgetown High School's junior basketball team bounced back to victory in their second game against Perdue last Thursday.

A team effort

The girls dumped Perdue 35-15. Both teams got off to a slow start and the score was low in the first half.

High scorers for the Rebels were Kelly Gordon with 15 points and Irene Marinko with seven.

Georgetown's junior girls have a lot of potential and individual skill, said coach Mrs. Tamas.

Everyone played in the game which she described as "smooth" plus the team played as a "cohesive unit and they made everything click."

The scoring was spread out and the Rebels' press in the game was effective, disorienting the opposition, she added.

The juniors' and seniors' next game is scheduled for Tuesday against White Oaks.

Gibson invited to Hong Kong

Sports amputee founder

John Gibson of Georgetown, founder of the Canadian and Ontario Amputee Sports Association, has been invited to Hong Kong to be their disabled games.

Gibson, who is a retired accountant, left Tuesday for a two-week trip to Southeast Asia, but without the Canadian team.

Around 600 athletes have been invited, but not Canada. Gibson is trying to arrange for the Canadian team to be entered in their next competition in 1986.

Gibson is going to the Hong Kong games on the invitation of the hosts, plus he will be advising the Australian team on amputee sports while he is there.

Canada is the forerunner in competitive sports for amputees and is the defending Olympic champion for amputee sports.

Ontario Outdoors

By R.C. (BOB) OLLIVIER

Look for a bad winter

Well, there you have it. The first snow of the winter. Fall actually, as winter is not officially or obviously here. But the overtures are there regardless of our wishing it would hold.

As I have been predicting all summer, we will have a fairly bad winter with plenty of snow cover. Let's just hope the ice forms fast and hard or we might have some bad ice conditions for that favorite winter sport, ice fishing.

If ice is good we can expect top rate fishing as there are plenty of fish and this goes for all legal species. Not every location will be good, however. Acton's Fairy Lake will not be very good this winter, as the pike did not spawn this spring, and the lake has seen a lot of motor boat traffic.

If motors were banned on Fairy Lake, and the lake was restocked with Bass and Pike, and the duck, goose and swan population was controlled, then this would be the high quality fishing spot it used to be some years ago.

Make sure you have a copy of the 1982-83 fishing regulations and keep tabs on open areas for winter fishing and make several trips this winter. You will not regret it I am sure.

LITTLE CLEO

Stock up on the Seneca Tackle company lure that goes under the name of LITTLE CLEO. This lure is a hot number for the splake in Owen Sound harbor.

As the season gets closer I will mention locations and tricks to take the species of fish that are resident there and in other areas. The big thing now is the fall fishery for salmon and trout. Once again read up on the regulations and pick your spot.

An excellent fall fishery is building, and lots of fish are being taken. Those fishermen who are hitting it big are not telling too much about their luck but we will try to find out for you.

What to do with all the fish you catch? If you are not in to catch and release fishing, then try it. If you don't catch enough to warrant this type of sportsmanship, then try smoking your catch.

Freezing fish is the most common method of keeping your catch over, but it's not the best. Nothing compares to cooking fresh caught fish, but smoking comes next.

SMOKERS

Smokers are cheap to build or they can be purchased at almost any fishing tackle store. The Little Chief is amongst the most worthy, and is readily available. Recipes come with the unit and I keep a large selection on hand if you ever need them.

At this time of the year fish can be readily taken on jigs and this includes ALL species of game fish.

As ice builds the tip-up or jigging stick comes into its own. I have been making a tip-up jigging stick and often sell a few. These are the best all round tool for the ice fisherman, and have been used for salmon and trout at the mouth of the Credit river in winter.

Football team blanked by Q.E.P.

By PAM DOUGLAS
Herald Correspondent
There wasn't much to be said by Rebel coaches about the football game fought on Georgetown High School's field last Friday against Queen Elizabeth Park.

The Rebels coaches were very pessimistic about the team's chances prior to the bout.

Rebels were not the first team to be beaten by Q.E.P. White Oaks, in a recent game, was blanked 40-0 by Q.E.P. The Rebels lost 56-0. It was their fourth loss out of four this season.

Coach Dale Law, who described Q.E.P. as the power in the league, said the Rebels lost 32 points to the team on their own mistakes.

By the end of the first quarter the score was 10-0. At half time it had jumped to 35-0 and all the Rebels wanted to do was score one touchdown so they could have had the satisfaction of knowing that they did that much more against the powerful Q.E.P. than other teams, said coach Law.

Q.E.P., he said, and other teams such as T.A. Blakelock, have had more experience than Georgetown.

Q.E.P. have been playing together for a longer period of time and the Rebels have not had the benefit of community football to gain more experience.

All the Rebels can do now is get ready for their next game against T.A. Blakelock, another very powerful team, he said.

Powers 'outstanding'

By PAM DOUGLAS
Herald Correspondent
Despite the absence of a few top players, the Ontario School Girls tournament was a success for Georgetown High School's senior, field hockey team.

The tournament, which ran Saturday and Sunday, both at Sunnybrook Park in Toronto and at Shell Park in Oakville, pitted 48 teams against one another. Each team played six games a piece.

Georgetown's senior girls, who played on Saturday at Shell Park, filled in their gaps with juniors because some of the seniors could not make the tournament.

Michelle Richmond scored a single goal for the Rebels' win over Walkerton 1-0. Georgetown had scoreless ties with Brampton, Cayuga's number two team, and Barton.

They lost two of their games 0-2 to Central Elgin and 0-1 to Cayuga's number one team.

The juniors won their first game against Lorne Park 2-1 with goals from Amie Hamilton and Angie Mackey, but they lost 6-0 to Cayuga's number one team, 5-0 to Lorne Park, 3-0 to Caledonia, 2-0 to Cayuga's number two team, and 2-0 to Eastdale.

A number of the referees commented on the play of Connie Powers and Julie Hulbert, two of the junior Rebel fullbacks who played for the seniors as well as the juniors in the tournament.

"Outstanding," said coach Wren of their playing.

Rebels force Blakelock to six-goal standstill

By PAM DOUGLAS
Herald Correspondent
Georgetown High School's field hockey team passed through T.A. Blakelock's team "like they were standing still," said coach Paul Wren.

All of the action in last Wednesday's game at Georgetown High School was in T.A. Blakelock's end and the senior Rebels shut them out 6-0.

All six goals were made by Denean Jones. Two of them were made on breakaways.

Their game on Thursday against Oakville Trafalgar, however, was anybody's game right up to the last quarter.

The field conditions for the game in Oakville were sloppy due to rain and the grass on the field was very high.

Georgetown's game is a passing game, said Mr. Wren. "The girls didn't know how hard to hit the ball to get it through the tail grass," he said.

Georgetown's Denean Jones scored the single goal in the last ten minutes of the game for a 1-0 win.

The semi-finals and finals are being held today at Shell Park in Oakville.

The Rebels are at the Halton County Championships at Kelso today (Wednesday) defending the title they have held for seven consecutive years.
