istry's policy and the role of district health councils in health promotion.
and suggestions on how to proceed in the development of a five-year plan for health promotion.

Dr. Rhonda Love from the University of Toronto's behavioral sciences department spoke on the many definitions of health promotion and specifically on its definition in relation to Halton.

Dr. Peter Cole, medical officer of health for Halton discussed the Health Unit's health promotion survey being undertaken by them this year.

Robbie Simpson, chairman of the Council's health promotion committee, discussed some ideas relating to the development of a health promotion plan.

Afternoon workshop sessions brought to light the need for agencies to combine efforts by discussing areas of mutual concern and the development of a newsletter to which organizations might submit programs of interest. The committee received a number of positive ideas

Firms broken into

Two Commerce Crescent businesses in Acton were broken into over the weekend and Halton regional police suspect the robberies were committed by the same people. Caravan Trailer Rentals was robbed of $1,400 worth of welding equipment and tools after thieves entered the premises by climbing up truck frames pulled against a wall and removing an exhaust fan from an upper window. From Warren Contracting Ltd., thieves stole 60 feet of steel cable and a unit used for pulling beams together. Losses totalled $500.

King Submarine of Georgetown's Mountainview Road South was entered last week by thieves who smashed the front door glass. The till was robbed of $20 and damage to the window glass was $60.
