

SPOOKS!

The angel and the cowboy might be better termed "beauty and the beast". A vast array of customers made memorial arena a colorful and exhilarating place to be Sunday afternoon. Here, Richelle Robinson and Scott Gaterell, both 6, take a breather on the bench.

Pursue five-year plan Health seminar

Herald Special
A recent seminar on Health Promotion in Halton, sponsored by the Halton District Health Council its health promotion committee and the regional health unit, brought together representatives of Halton agencies and organizations involved in health promotion, several local regional councillors, public health nurses and area health council members and staff.

The aim of the seminar was to assist community groups in the evolution of a health promotion network and to receive input to help the committee develop a five-year model for health promotion planning for Halton.

Dr. Jerry Conway, manager of health promotion services at the ministry of health, presented the min-
