

TOBOGGAN HILL IN THE MAKING

Get your toboggans polished and dusted off. Georgetown is going to have a floodlit tobogganing hill at Cedarvale Park this winter. The bulldozers have been busy grading the south end of the park all last week, and five men have been taking out the brush and getting rid of unsightly dumpings. The town will also have a new picnic area for next year as a result of all this work. The recreation department has budgeted $4,000 for the work and applied for a municipal incentives program grant to help out.

Christmas gift, card ideas help the world's children

Herald Special
Beautiful greeting cards, exciting new gift ideas - all this and more await you at the UNICEF greeting card sales location near you now!
The 1983 selection of UNICEF holiday greeting cards features designs by Canadian artists Ken Danby, David Milne and Rosalie Lane, plus many other internationally-acclaimed artists, representing a fascinating variety of artistic styles. Cards range in price from $5 to $8 per package of 10 cards and envelopes.
In addition to the card collection, UNICEF offers a stunning new range of gifts this season. Included in the selection is the new Correspondence Folio, a very attractively printed paper folio containing note cards, airmail-weight cards, mini cards, post-cards and decorated sheets of writing paper with design-coordinated envelopes. Cost: $8.

UNICEF also offers the popular and versatile Super Box Collection again this year. But this time it is packaged in a smart, contemporary desk caddy which can later be used as an attractive box-file to hold addresses, telephone numbers, recipes, coupons or notes. This perfect gift contains 15 note cards, 15 mini cards, 10 multilingual greetings inserts and 10 petite gift enclosures. Cost: $12.

Seasonal gift enclosures to accompany your holiday packages are also a part of the selection of UNICEF stationery you may choose from. The two red and green designs come in a mixed package of 20, priced at $2.50.
Another delightful gift which can be enjoyed throughout the year is the 1983 UNICEF desk calendar. It is a fascinating photo-journal celebrating the universal understanding that "Water Means Life", and is designed in a handy week-at-a-glance format. Cost: $8. Or those appointments may be jotted down in the new UNICEF pocket diary planner, which comes in a specially designed UNICEF blue cover. Cost: $2.50.

And don't forget that you can order stationery this year - a super gift for your family, friends and even for yourself! Priced from $8 (plain) to $20 (imprinted).
When you send a UNICEF greeting, you do more than transmit good wishes to a friend or relative...you also send hope to a child. Over the years, the sale of cards, stationery and other gift items has enabled UNICEF to broaden the scope of its activities in the fields of child nutrition, health-care, education and improved sanitation. Every pack of UNICEF greeting cards, every calendar, every gift item purchased today helps make a needy child's tomorrow a little brighter. What better way is there to share your wishes of peace and goodwill this Christmas than with UNICEF cards and gifts? They are available now.

Christmas seals are reminders

How lucky we are

It may seem superfluous to mention that the Christmas seal campaign is the annual money-raising event of the Halton Lung Association.
It may seem unnecessary to mention that our symbols are the Christmas Seal and the Double-barred Cross. But, Cec McFadden, campaign chairman, contends that symbols mean a great deal to people and strongly influence their whole concept - how they see the organization represented in the symbol.
The Christmas Seal campaign reminds you how lucky you are:
* being able to breathe without hurting or coughing
* being able to breathe quietly, gently and regularly without effort
* being able to sleep curled up, like a kitten, instead of being propped up * being able to run for the bus, ski across country, jog around the park, swim umpteen pool lengths, walk up those necessary flights, carry the groceries or the grandchild.

The Christmas Seal campaign reminds you how thankful you are:
* that boys and girls as well as parents and all adults know better than to start smoking
* that research into asthma and other pulmonary diseases has produced understanding of these conditions and better ways to combat them
* that improved knowledge of cause and effect in breathing problems has helped all ages - making the first days easier for many newborns and the last days more bearable for the elderly.
On the other hand, if you have a problem:
* if you are a smoker and would like to stop, the lung association will help

* if you have asthma or a child with asthma, the lung association offers programs for all ages and special group activities and summer camps for the young
* if you work in conditions harmful to your lungs, the lung association is working towards improving conditions for workers in hazardous situations
* if you have a lung problem which is hampering your life style, the lung association offers group programs giving not only information but also real service to those suffering from chronic breathing disorders.
This month, every household in Halton will receive Christmas Seals in their mail. Some have already contributed to this year's campaign. Others are urged to answer the appeal. As Cec McFadden says, "STICK WITH US, IT'S A MATTER OF LIFE AND BREATH".
