

BEING PREPARED

A number of "accidents" kept members of the town's aquatics staff busy at the Georgetown and District High School pool busy recently. While the nature of the incidents, were serious, no one was injured - the accidents were simulations used to train staffers how to respond quickly and calmly to poolside injuries. Having suffered a "heart attack" victim Craig Borotik is helped from the pool by lifeguards Don Elson (left) and Cheryl Thompson. Make-up was used to add realism to the injuries which ranged from a nail driven into a hand to a broken back.

Couple hosts WI party

Mr. and Mrs. Koperdraad welcomed the Ballinafad Women's Institute, their husband and friends as guests for the Christmas meeting of the annual supper and get-together.

Although the weather outside was not very much like the Christmas season, the atmosphere in the large recreation room with all the beautiful decorations put up and the cosy fire burning in the fireplace put everyone in the festive mood.

Card tables were set up each one was centered with a lighted candle. Food was arranged on a table in an adjoining room. It was served buffet style.

When the meal was over the W.I. members formed a group around a table for a short business session. Some women volunteered to help with the gifts for the sick and shut-ins.

The new quilt which the W.I. bought at the U.C.W. Bazaar was on display for all to see. Husbands and guests then joined in with the members for the rest of the evenings' activities.

An entertaining quiz game was enjoyed. A few games of progressive euchre were played. Lille Given favored with a solo. Marg Jamieson gave a reading. Eileen McEnery took charge of the music as the old time Carols and Christmas songs were sung.

It was then time to give out the prizes for the different contests and have the exchange of gifts.

President on behalf of all present, thanked the Koperdraads, for again inviting the institute to their home for this special meeting, also to Eleanor McLean and Alma Sinclair for planning the delicious meal to Lille Given and Eileen Burt for planning the program, and last, but not least to Eileen McEnery for always being so generous in sharing of her talent and her time in providing music for the sing-along. That brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. French attended the Christening of their little grandson at Trinity United Church in Acton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne French, presented their baby boy for the sacrament of baptism at the morning service. He was christened Nathan Wesley Kirkwood French.

Following the service, both the Kirkwood and the French families went to Wayne's home for lunch. There were 40 present. For an extra touch to the happy occasion the French's attended the "Boars' Head" dinner at the same church in the evening.

The former minister, Rev. Beaton, started the tradition when he came to Acton to preach at Trinity and the new minister is carrying it on. Rev. and Mrs. Beaton, also attended the dinner from Hamilton, where they are now living.

Communion service was observed at Ballinafad Church Sunday with a good attendance. Parents brought their children out for Sunday School. Before going down to classes they lined up to listen to the story Rev. Bandy had to tell them.

Much appreciation is given to the young people who volunteered to help with the Sunday School during the absence of Mrs. Pat Kerr. Next Sunday is white gift Sunday and families are asked to come out for the service, bring lunch and stay for the afternoon's program.

Workshops can help parents cope

Adolescence is a trying time. How can parents cope? The North Halton Youth Services is offering a series of educational workshops followed by ongoing support groups for parents of teenagers. The free, weekly evening sessions begin in January at Acton and Milton. To register, call Carol McMullen at 853-3310 or drop by the Youth Services office at 113 Mill St. in Acton.

Police warning

Halton regional police are warning the public about an attractive 17-year old redhead who is pretending to be a member of the Salvation Army and collecting funds. A complaint by a Peel Street resident in Acton Thursday night revealed the young woman, about 5 feet 4 inches tall, wasn't with the Army. The young woman was carrying a foil wrapped box that said "Sally Ann Food Supplies" and claimed to be collecting for them.
