

Letters to Santa from M.Z. BENNETT P.S. ...and Santa's replies TO ROOM 1

Hello Room 1.
Many, many thanks for all those lovely letters you sent me. They arrived in plenty of time by sleigh and because they there are so many of them, the reindeer have helped open them with their sharp hooves.
I knew you were going to send me letters and I kept a close eye out for the Arctic postman. Every day around this time of year he leaves bundles of mail in and around my mailbox, which is attached to the North Pole.
Did you know that my elves come from all over the world to help me make toys? Why some of them are from your area and know your classroom very well. If I couldn't make out something spelled in a letter I could always count on them to tell me what it is you want.
I've been told that you have all been very good this year, although there have been some bad moments. I have those, too, and Mrs. Claus lets me know it when I don't hang up my coat up or I track in wet snow from outside.
I noticed that many of you asked for gifts and you said "PLEASE". That's wonderful and I really like that because it makes me happy to see children with good manners. Some of you said you'd leave me little snacks so I'll say thank you in advance because I probably won't meet you (you should be in bed when I visit).

Sometimes kids ask me what the workshop is like up here. Well it's not a large building, although you'd think we would need one to make all those toys.
Elves are small and they don't require much room to move around - I guess because I'm fat and jolly, I take up a great deal of space.
We work on long benches. As I draw out letters from the mailbox, the elves begin making the toys I read off from your lists. We are always singing because the work goes faster with the rhythm.
I think you can tell that we really love our workshop and the letters we get from you each year make us laugh and dance and sing until all the work is done.
Eye for now,
Santa

TO ROOM 3

To all my dear little friends in Room 3,
Ho, ho, ho! My mail box here at the North Pole was just stuffed with your letters and they're all so nicely done.
Mrs. Claus and I spent an entire evening reading them and making lists of gifts. Now the elves in the workshop across the yard are working hard to make sure you will be happy with the things I'm going to bring you.
Lots of you asked for Strawberry Shortcake dolls, Smurf radios, cars, trucks, more dolls, tape recorders to play your favorite music on, video games, magic tricks and lots of things about Star Wars. Oh, there are so many toys in my workshop we can barely move around and by asking for things you'll help me clear out space to make room for next year's toys!
When I visited Acton a few weeks ago, there wasn't much snow on the ground. I think you'll agree with me that Christmas without snow isn't much fun, but now I think we're in luck. My reindeer Blitzen has good sense of weather and he said it would snow down south and sure enough, great wonderful, fluffy piles of snow fell on the weekend.

Believe it or not kids, I flew over Acton last week when you were all asleep. I wanted to make sure I didn't miss any of your houses. I could see from way up high that many of you had been building snowmen.
Now there are only a few days before Christmas, so let's try to help out our parents, brothers and sisters because this is a very busy season for everybody, not just me. And don't worry, if I can't make it down your chimney, I'll slip quietly through the door. You won't see me, but you'll know I've been there when you wake up in the morning.
Have a merry Christmas, my friends and I'll see you soon.
Hugs and kisses, Santa
