

Volunteers always manage to find time

Herald Special
Many people are under the impression that volunteering is something for the homemaker who has nothing else to do. It doesn't do much for society but keep these women busy. Well, volunteers are far from being "the little woman at home". Many very busy women and men find time to get involved as volunteers. Our politicians would not make it to any height without volunteers to work for them or promote them. The many organizations, agencies, service clubs and groups could not exist without their volunteers.

Whether it be locally, regionally, provincially or nationally, we all benefit from volunteer work. Many boards consist of volunteers - men and women, young and old, paid workers or homemakers or retired persons. They're all out there working for us.

Our country could not function without the help of our volunteers nor could our country afford to pay for the many man-hours donated by these people. If you are a volunteer or know of one, consider the number of hours this person gives, not only at meetings or working but thinking time.

Now multiply those hours by the minimum hourly rate. That doesn't seem like too much. Now consider that in 1980, a study showed that 2.7 million Canadians were volunteers. Those involved in this study may have gone to each person in Canada to inquire but it is possible that a few people were overlooked. There may have been a few instances where those persons did not consider themselves volunteers.

A volunteer is defined as "one who performs a service without pay" or "to give or offer (help, services, information, etc.) freely and without solicitation". This does not say that this involvement should be with an agency or organization.

A man may shovel his neighbor's driveway or he may be on the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society. He or she is a volunteer. He does his job willingly and free of charge.

A woman may help at the school or she may sit on the Housing Authority Board. She is a volunteer. She does her job willingly and free of charge.

Volunteering does not know sex, age, social standing, educational or financial background. Volunteering only recognizes caring and sharing.

To learn more about volunteer positions available in your area, call Carol Clark at the North Halton Volunteer Centre, 677-3219.

It's not too late to plot and plan. Do all the secret good you can. Take young and old folk by surprise. And scatter stardust in their eyes. For you won't know the joy of living until you share the thrill of giving.

ASTRO ADVICE

by Eugenia Witham

Dear Eugenia,

I read your column with much interest. I would sincerely like your comments about my family and myself. We were all born in Chatham, Ontario. I was born on Sunday, June 22, 1947 at approximately 8:45 a.m. My husband was born on Wednesday, October 24, 1945 at 7:45 a.m. Our oldest son was born Friday, June 23, 1972 at 8:08 p.m. and the youngest on Tuesday, March 11, 1975 at 9:48 p.m. Moon Child

Dear Moon Child,

The last seven years your chart has been undergoing some bad transits. I am happy to say that the worst is over and stabilization is setting in over the next couple of years. You will, however, have an aspect of delusion and self deception in some areas of your life such as where work is involved and within relationships. This can cause over-indulgence and escapism through alcohol, drugs or unwise pursuits of pleasure. It can cause unstable romantic infatuations, disruption of friendships and loss due to unwise impulsive financial decisions.

It will be favorable for progress and realization of your personal goals and objectives and for making professional changes. You will terminate old conditions in preparation for new endeavors. It is the time for self-improvement and having a greater understanding of yourself and what you want out of life. There could be a reappearance of an old romantic partner towards the latter part of this year. You should try and stay clear of unreliable eccentric people as well as taking on unrealistic tasks and responsibilities.

Your husband is a Scorpio, however he has a great deal of Libra in his chart. The last three years have been somewhat frustrating and limiting for him, however this is now over and things look much brighter. He should be cautious of get rich quick schemes by making sure he has sound financial advice before getting into new endeavors. He will have unusual and exciting unexpected social, business, or romantic opportunities.

His ideas will be original and there could be a greater interest pertaining to art and music. It will be a good year for self-improvement through travel, or education. Excessive financial expenditures and over-indulgence in food and drink could cause problems however if he can keep moderation in mind it will be eliminated. He would be wise not to over-commit to friends, groups, and organizations during the latter part of this year.

Your oldest son is a moon child as well. During the last year and a half he has been a little unpredictable. He is quite sensitive and needs to feel appreciated. The planet that was upsetting him last year will touch his chart again for the last time during the summer months. He will have a reappearance of old friends this year as well. This spring he must be cautious where physical injuries or exhaustion through overwork is concerned.

This aspect can also cause skin inflammations, falls, broken bones and problems with teeth. He underwent the same aspect last October and November. There will be kindness and consideration towards and from friends and family members as well as good fortune as a result of past good actions. He should also have unexpected opportunities for travel or education during the latter part of 1983.

Your youngest is a strong Aries. During the last three years he has had some limitations and frustrations, however I'm glad to say that the worst is over. His creative imagination is at an all time high. If you can get him to sit long enough to accomplish, sports and music would be an excellent way to direct his energy during the next seven years.

It will be a good year for inner growth and development. If his energy is not directed properly he could be impulsive causing quarrels with friends. There should also be a reappearance of old friends for him. This spring he may feel lonely and depressed and this could result in coldness where social and family relations are concerned. You will have to watch that he doesn't take too much for granted.

He will also lack moderation and could prove to be impatient and careless which could result in minor accidents.
