

Town honors our cultural, athletic achievers

Kathy Griffiths, Rosemary Findlay, David Williams, Billy Rea and director Katie Kirkup-Ortolan. (Front row) Marimo Kubot, Debbie Wilson, Jane Campbell and Irena Mackey.

The 1982 Georgetown Bantam Girls bowling team won the national championship in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. They first defeated 17 teams to win their zone, then advanced to beat 17 more teams at the provincial finals in Scarborough. They are coached by Mrs. Shirley Chaplin, and they are: Toni McClements, Michelle Webster, Lisa Brading, Leanne Burt and Valerie Sabo.

Almost 250 people jammed into the John Elliott Theatre on Church Street Thursday night to see the presentation of the 1983 Recognition and Honor Awards commemorating cultural and athletic achievement by citizens of Halton Hills.

Mayor Peter Pomeroy hosted the evening, and Canadian swimming sweetheart Cindy Nicholas was the guest speaker.

All together, 144 people were honored by the community.

These are some of the people that put Halton Hills on the map in 1982.

The Georgetown minor atom rep team of 1982 finished their Tri-County schedule in first place with a won-lost-tied mark of 22-5-3. They then went on to capture the Ontario Minor Hockey Association championship. The team roster includes Coach Ed Serjeantson, managers Dempsey Snow, and Kevin

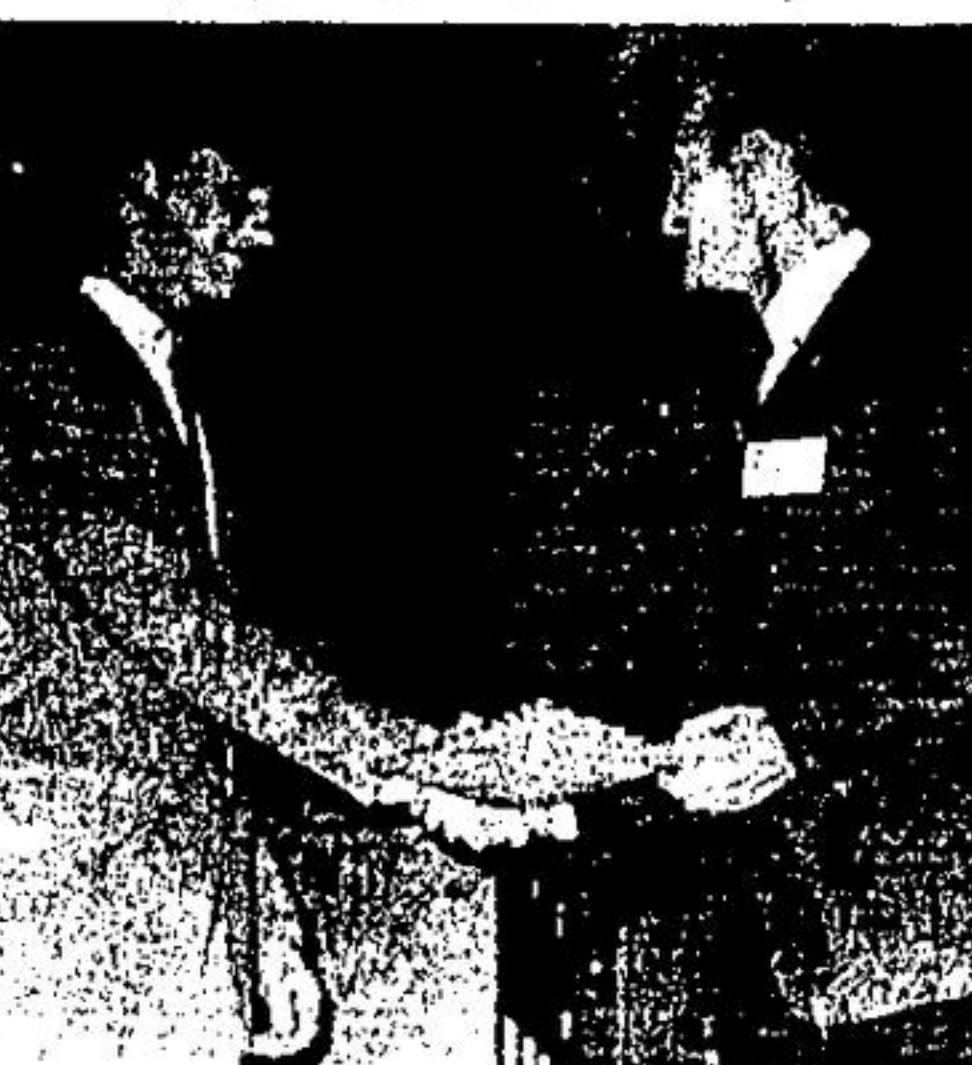

Hughes, and players Shannon Finn, Chris Cambouris, Mark Lorito, Joel Burton, Trevor Snow, Wes McCauley, Mike Barnes, Wade Serjeantson, Andy Pearce, Sean Gardner, Steve Alchin, Rod Pasma, Mike McElroy, David Hodgson, Kevin Usher, Mark Mininch, and Mike Melville.

Speaking of awards, Cindy Nicholas, pictured here, has won a few. A former Canadian Woman Athlete-of-the-Year and member of the British Hall of Fame, she has also been named to the Order of Canada for her 19 crossings of the English Channel.

Action figure skater Susan Kinal accepts her award from Halton Hills councillor Dave Whiting. Susan and her partner, David Howe of British Columbia, were eighth overall at the Canadian Figure Skating Championships in junior pairs. She also skated in a "four's" event and helped to capture a silver medal at the national finals.

Plant Andrea Thiel receives congratulations from councillor Phil Carney after accepting his award. Over the years, Andrea has participated in high school musical groups, and with Trinity United Musical Productions. This year Andrea won a Kiwanis open competition.

Laura Ditrach, one of the founding members of the Acton Arts and Crafts organization, receives her award from Halton Hills councillor Phil Carney.
