Did You Know?

Following a period of significant increases from 1970 to 1975, the growth in certain violent crimes, such as robbery and wounding, seems to have leveled off from 1975 to 1980. The murder rate has actually dropped since 1975. (Source: The Criminal Law in Canadian Society, unedited version, page 15).

In 1979, there were 4.7 crimes of violence in the United States for every one such crime in Canada (after taking into account the larger U.S. population).

KNOW THE LAW.

IT'S EASIER THAN YOU THINK.

The Ministry of the Attorney General is committed to making Ontario's justice system convenient and accessible to the public it serves. To this end, we have produced a variety of pamphlets, booklets, films, and posters which explain, in plain language, the essentials of such subjects as family law, criminal law, small claims court, criminal injuries compensation and more. Through this material, knowing and understanding the nature of Ontario's laws, and how they govern us, is made easier for everyone. And all this material is available free of charge. All you need do is ask.

For copies of any material, or for a list of current films and publications, write: Ministry of the Attorney General, Communications Branch, 18 King Street East, Toronto, Ontario M5C 1C5.

Roy McMurtry Ontario Attorney General
