

WHAT'S COOKING?

The Sheppards had been talking about buying a gas barbecue when they got a phone call last weekend telling them their name had been drawn by Home Hardware owner Don Wilson, as the winner of the barbecue bonanza contest. The Georgetown family (left to right) David Sheppard, 8, dad Brian, mom Lyn and Norman, 5, were pleased they won't have to borrow granny's barbecue any more.

Producer faces sewer problem

Complaints from a residents group in Meadowvale have apparently spurred Peel regional council into taking a closer look at sewer related problems at Maple Lodge Farms on Winston Churchill Boulevard.

Residents have objected to strong odors coming from the plant, a major chicken processing operation not far from Norval.

Two injured

Two Maple Avenue men had minimal injuries Sunday at 3:45 a.m. while negotiating a three-point turn south of Sideroad 15 on Eighth Line. A south-bound vehicle on Eighth Line struck the left side of the vehicle in which Carl Matthew Nolan, and John Deliviera were seated. The car left the scene after the collision without stopping. There was $1,500 damage to the turning car.

Library exempted from rent fees

When the Halton Hills library plans free programs for kids and adults, they won't have to pay for using larger quarters like the John Elliott Theatre, art gallery or meeting room in the cultural centre - at least until the end of the year.

After hearing from library board rep Norm Elliott, town council waived rents on the facilities as they apply to library programming for free events. Mr. Elliott said that the board's budget is constrained as it is without having to meet rents charged by the recreation department.

There is continuing pressure from the public to find larger quarters, especially for some of its children's programming. Initially, Mr. Elliott explained, the library had hoped it would get its own events room when the cultural centre was built two years ago.

ROOM SACRIFICED
But when the construction budget was pared to bare essentials, the library's room was one of the items sacrificed.

Recreation director Tom Shepard told council that waiving the rental fees would open the door to requests for similar treatment from other groups claiming financial hardship.

While free programs provide an excellent service to the public, Mr. Shepard suggested the library board consider small charges for programs booked for the theatre or surrounding rooms. The cultural centre, he
