

GDHS clubs

Just one week into the new school year, the Georgetown District High School extra-curricular program has already begun, with several clubs now underway.

The Humanities Club was formed last year to provide students with the opportunity to attend such events as ballet, symphony, and the opera. The club will continue in the same fashion this year.

For the French enthusiast there is the French Club which allows students more time to speak the language while allowing them to improve their French at the same time.

The Variety Club is designed for students who like to sing, play the guitar, write poetry, or do comic routines. The club also gives the members a chance to perform in their area of study later on in the year.

One of the more popular clubs is the G.D.H.S. Outers Club. Held year round, the club's purpose is to teach the basic skills required for enjoyment of hiking, camping, canoeing, and cross-country skiing, while encouraging the development of leadership skills among the members.

The students go on several trips throughout the year, including a backpacking trip in September, a cross-country ski trip in January, and in February, the members take part in a Winter Survival overnight trip.

Before the trips can take place though, a number of safety precautions have to be taken, such as instruction on canoe safety, canoe skills, camping skills, and swimming-lifesaving. All members must understand and pass all the safety procedures before being allowed to enjoy the outdoors with the club.

Those who visit the hall exhibits Sept. 16-18 will be exposed to the theme of this year's ladies section: the 70th anniversary of the Act-on-Fall Fair.

The different categories have tried to incorporate the theme in baking, sewing, canned goods and other areas. For example, a cake has been decorated to commemorate the fair's history while Chudleigh's apple farm have sponsored an apple recipe with something old from the past contained in the ingredients.
