

theHERALD

Friday, October 28, 1983

Howsettes & Happy Ads — $1,50 per line of type first insertion, $1.35 per fine of type for each addisonal Insertion, Minimum 3 lines of type. Hewsettes and Happy Ads deadline 11 a.m. Tuesdays. Phone 877-8822 to place your advertsement

WANTED

Reliable babysitter req. imm. to provide loving care for 15 mo, old boy in my home. Non smoker preferred. Pt. time — 877-0862 Brenda.646843news

Election reflections

Some candidates would run again

Among the defeated there is weariness, pride, disappointment and fulfillment.

The candidates which Jake Kuiken edged out for the open spot on town council as an Esquesing representative aren't crushed by the experience.

But they are collectively disappointed in the low voter turn out, especially during a period when so many council decisions directly affect life in Halton Hills' rural area.

"The people in the ward who voted deserve a great round of applause," Dollie Moulden, the by-election's third place finisher said. "The people who didn't, well..." Following the election, friends gathered at her Limehouse home to toast her campaign.

"I think we ran an excellent campaign," Mrs. Moulden said. "I'm happy with it. We're not sitting around here moping about the results."

ENDS

CAMPAIGNING? However, Mrs. Moulden says that, while she'll remain active with various agencies and with the Federal Liberal Party, she's hanging up her campaign trail boots.

"I think two tries are enough," Mrs. Moulden said. (She campaigned unsuccessfully for Esquesing's regional seat in the 1980 election against incumbent Russ Miller.

Robert Heaton and Tony Taylor have enjoyed their first taste of political campaigning and expect they'll return the next time opportunity knocks.

"It was a real education." Mr. Heaton said. "I'm just sorry I couldn't get around to see more people but I'd like to thank my supporters. I picked up a lot of pointers from people."

Mr. Taylor, like his fellow candidates is disappointed that more people didn't take the election seriously enough to vote. But he enjoyed his campaign.

"I learned so much about the area, I'd give running again in 1985 some serious consideration."

READY TO RUN Undaunted by the outcome of the campaign, Mr. Jim France said he's ready to run again and is planning to be ready for the next elec-

"I really enjoyed it and I got a lot out of the campaign," he said.

Pete Norton thanked his supporters and feels he ran the best campaign of all.

Pete Norton said he appreciates the efforts of his supporters and said they helped him run the best campaign of the by-election.

The disappointing turnout was especially noticeable in the east end of the ward, he said.

Jake Kuiken, (third from right) is congratulated by Georgetown (Ward 4) Coun. Harry Levy. Mr. Kuiken is joined by (left to right) Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Taylor, Jennie Kuiken and Esquesing regional Coun. Russ Miller.

Caledon residents oppose development

Up against a brick wall

By TONY ROCCHI Herald Special

Opponents to the relocation of Brampton Brick Co. in Cheltenham admit it's difficult to argue with technological, legal and economic experts.

However, they want governments, industries and the public to realize that there are moral and ethical issues at stake if the old Cheltenham brickyard is re-develop-

"This is a moral issue. A government doesn't have the mandate to impose this development on a community," sald Alan Hunter, spokesman for People for the Preservation of Rural Living.

MEETING The group will hold a meeting on Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. at Creditview Public School and have invited Caledon town council. Ontario government officials, members of the Nisgara Escarpment Commission, officials from Brampton Brick to discuss concerns.

Brampton Brick, Main Street North, originally considered relocating in Cheltenham in 1980. However, a virtual collapse of the construction industry forced the company to put that plan on hold.

The industry has revived and in September, the company asked Caledon council to amend the official plan; the area is now zoned open space and an amendment would redesignate it as extractive industrial. Residents can submit comments on the proposal to council until Nov. 30.

Brampton Brick outlined its proposals to residents at a public meeting on Sept. 21 and one group formed People for the Preservation of Rural Living several weeks later.

The Cheltenham brickyard is located on Mississauga Road near King Street and Brampton Brick plans to build a plant on a 99-hectare (245 acres) site.

"We've been told that it will be the greatest thing since silced bread, that it will bring jobs, electricity and gas and that's no need to worry about pollution," said Hunter.

- Courtesy Brampton Times

Assault follows dispute, Toronto mother charged

FISH TALES

Melanie?" That's him, folks: Cap'n. Highliner himself. Bob Warner, who left his lonely tighthouse somewhere in the foggy Maritimes to say hello to some fans of his in Georgetown. Cap'n.

Highliner was the special guest Saturday of the Georgetown Alliance Church where youngsters were involved in a week-long program of games, animal calls and music. An entrancing speaker,

Cap'o. Highliner is enormously popular with the kids each year he visits and Acton's Melanie

Bennett was delighted to share a few moments of

"Arrr! Have you ever been to sea,

As a result of a domestic complaint, a 29-year old Toronto woman was charged with minor assault on her 12 year old daughter.

his time.

Halton regional police were called to a Storey Drive home in Acton by a neighbor who witnessed a domestic dispute between mother and daughter.

Police said an argument was taking place between the daughter and her stepfather when the mother intervened. The girl refused to settle down, and the mother struck her in the face and allegedly kicked her in the stomach, police said.

The daughter suffered a bleeding nose and cuts 14.

to the inside of her upper lip.

The woman and her family were visiting the home of her sister. The woman appears in Milton provincial court Nov.

Hallow'en Monday

The ghoulish faces can come out Monday night. Council passed no resolutions in its last meeting changing Halowe'en from the tradtional Oct. 31 date. So, gather those monsters and give them door-to-door reign.

Acton home robbed

Goods totalling $2,176 were stolen from an RRI Acton home Thurs. day during daylight hours. The front door window was broken to give thieves access.

Stolen was a Panasonic video recorder worth $856, Atari home computer worth $300, three blank video casselte tapes worth $60, three computer games

Extra sleep

An hour's extra snooze will be gained this weekend as clocks move back at 2 a.m. Sunday to Eastern Standard Time.

worth $210 and an Atarl

$600. Halton regional 410 tape recorder worth police are investigating.

Liquor violations

Over the weekend there were four liquor charges laid, all in Acton and all against persons between 16 and 17 years of age. Halton regional police charged them with being minors consuming liquor. The legal drinking age in the province is 19.

