Psychotherapist at library Feb. 21

A psychotherapist in private practice is coming to Georgetown Public Library Feb. 21 to talk about solving problems with co-operation.

The first of the library's Survival Series, the talk features Arlene Anisman, M.Ed., a psychotherapist who specializes in problem solving techniques.

She'll be presenting ideas on how to make contracts for change, use rules of co-operation for loving struggle, mediate conflicts and equalize power. Personal problem-solving in this framework is seen as a means to reclaim personal power in order to make satisfying changes in relation to self and others.

The lecture starts at 7:30 p.m. at the library on Church Street. The lecture fee is $2. The fee for the survival series is $5.
