

Three-day celebration

BIG exhibitors meet for final details

Herald Staff
Businesses from Georgetown met last Tuesday to map out final plans for the BIG Celebration which comes to town June 14, 15 and 16.

Show organizers and committee heads spoke at Alcott Hall to the 152 exhibitors about the exhibition celebrating Georgetown's 120th anniversary as a town.

The Chamber of Commerce organizers were noticeably excited at the turnout and did their best to create a feeling of enthusiasm among the exhibitors present.

Announced as an added incentive for creating the best booth is a prize being awarded by Roos Travel.

Former transport business owner Bob Lane offered on the spot to carry the costs of a full-time security service for the exhibitors when questions arose over theft possibilities.

Promotions coordinator Bill Ward outlined the entertainment during the three day event which includes the country music of Keith Williams, a fashion show, old time step dancing and a string band.

For Father's Day there is a contest for the fathers who sport the best pair of legs. The Father wins a $30 gift certificate from Fletcher's Shoes and the son wins $10 worth of BIG souvenir coins.

As project director, Lyn Barnard told the group how proud she was of the management team.

"This year was a perfect time to throw a party," she said, adding that the Chamber for a while had wanted to do something to help businesses and show the Chamber's appreciation for their support.

She commented on how thrilled she was on how the BIG Celebration turned out with participation and interest shown by businesses, service clubs, seniors and students.

High school teacher Charles Genere was at the meeting. He and students from Georgetown District High School will be forming a welcoming committee at the entrance to the celebration.

It was mentioned that although all of the booth spaces have been taken, there are still centre piece flower arrangements available as sponsorships for the birthday dinner June 14.

Bob Meads from the Halton Hills firefighters gave a talk about fire safety precaution for exhibitors during the celebration.
