Jack is survived by his older brother Stan of Toronto. Jack's younger brother Caron predeceased him in 1965 and was a long time resident of Georgetown.

Having lived and farmed in Norval in the early 1930s, Jack returned in retirement to Georgetown where he spent the last six years of his life enjoying his many friendships here and his favorite hobby of raising flowers which he distributed to friends and family alike.

Jack's 50 year working career spanned a variety of interests; he was Chief Petty Officer on the pleasure cruiser, the original "Cayuga", did naval boat construction during W.W. II, was a

Lights will stay

It was only to be a temporary measure, but lighting of the Limehouse bridge is to stay.

Regional councillors authorized an agreement with the Canadian National Railways last week to provide lighting at the Limehouse bridge.

The lighting was originally put up at the bridge in the fall of 1983 when CNR carried out major repairs to the bridge which carries Regional Road 43 over the tracks.
