

FINISHING TOUCHES FOR OCT. 31

He might not have won a prize, but Terry Craig, 13, of Oakville had fun picking out his own pumpkin and carving it for a contest sponsored by the Mountsberg Wildlife Centre Sunday. (Herald photo)

It's a hairy thing, but Vanessa Pottinger, 8, of Oakville had no trouble finding lots of wild 'props' to dress up her pumpkin. She was at the Mountsberg Wildlife Centre near Campbellville on Sunday with her parents competing in a pumpkin carving contest. (Herald photo)

Want to get away

Increasingly, people in the big city want to get away, and where better than to Halton Hills, asked a tourism consultant last week.

Stephen Chait, working on a study of tourism for the region, said North Halton appeals to the city dweller.

It offers scenic driving, lots of local color, antique shops, and the refreshment of "getting away".

Cultural events also appeal to people outside the town.

Mr. Chait noted Halton Hills offers 11 events a year, of which the two fall fairs are great crowd drawers.
