

Xmas with Kitty

Here are a few hints from the Canadian Cat Association, that will insure a Merry Christmas for the pet owners:

1. Make sure your Christmas tree is well anchored. It would be very surprising that the cat remain indifferent in the presence of all those moving ornaments, those scintillating decorations and that he not try at least once to climb the tree.

2. You will quickly find out that it is more economical to use unbreakable decorations... Try to avoid too many decorations on the lower branches, too easily accessible to the cat.

Do not use any garlands or icicles whether they be the old fashioned type or plastic.

Cats find them very intriguing and besides their possible toxicity, they can cause intestinal irritation and severe intestinal obstruction. Remember that inexpensive decorations may become very costly if they have to be removed from the cat's stomach.

3. No matter what the times of your own meals, make sure your pet follows its regular schedule. Routine is very important for the cat and any change will bring unnecessary stress.

4. If you organize a family repast, make sure the cat does not stay around the table. Do not allow your guests to give him the leftovers. Besides, a meal is anyway much quieter without the cat(s) begging on or under the table.

5. The best solution is perhaps to confine the cat in a separate room with his own little feast... boneless. The cat will be quite happy by himself and your party will probably be much more enjoyable without him.

6. If you serve turkey, chicken, rabbit or any other meat, make sure that all leftovers are well disposed of.

Too easy to reach, the cat will soon discover them and might eat bones that can be highly dangerous for his stomach causing diarrhoea, vomiting and even severe intestinal disorders that only very delicate surgery will solve - something to harm any after-Christmas budget.

The Canadian Cat Association wishes the very best to all cat fanciers for this Christmas and the New Year. For more useful hints, all cat fanciers, amateurs or breeders are welcome to become members of the Association.

The Canadian Cat Association sanctions cat shows throughout Canada and more than 25 clubs are affiliated. New Clubs are welcomed and anyone interested will receive hints on "How to start a cat club". The head office of the C.C.A. is located at 14 Nelson St. W., Suite 3, Brampton, Ontario, L6X 1B7.

Bart Soder puts his popsicle bridge to the test by putting all 100 pounds of his weight on the structure. Made from approximately 250 sticks the bridge impressed more than a few people at the ADHS's Pure Science Exposition.
