

Volunteering

Bureau has work for you

Do you have free time to spare? The North Halton Volunteer Bureau has a list of opportunities.

Men are needed to assist seniors with odd jobs around the home. If you are handy with minor house repairs and can assist on an occasional basis, we need your help.

A busy Georgetown office requires clerical assistance for copying, cataloguing of reference material, indexing and possibly typing. If you have 3-4 hours per week to work, we can keep you busy.

Friendly visitors are always needed to cheer up those who can not get out. What better way to brighten your own day.

Working with the terminally ill and their families requires a very special type of person. If you have a genuine concern for others and feel that you might be able to help a family through a very difficult time - call for more information about an upcoming training program.

Put your writing-coordinating skills to work as a public relations person for a growing organization.

Your nursing background could be put to use as a patient coordinator for a local group. Lots of phone work and some home visits required. For more information about these and other volunteer positions contact the North Halton Volunteer Bureau at 877-3219.

Doberthien heads services

Lorne Doberthien assumed role of president of the Acton Social Services and Information Centre at their annual general meeting Thursday.

Other appointments were Lorene Barton as vice-president, Margaret Tamblin as secretary and Gerald Rennie as treasurer. ASSIC consists of executive-director, Peggie Balkind, who is a full time employee and two part time employees, Eileen Dix and Carol Clark.

The centre, located at 115 Mill Street East, is there to meet the social service needs in Acton and is involved in the organization and direction of health care services.
