Scissors' models trip to Toronto

Donna Lambert likes doing things with style. March 10 and 11, she and 30 men and women from Halton Hills showed off their style.

The owner of Scissors at the Halton Hills Shopping Centre took part in the annual hair show at the Toronto Convention Centre.

She and her staff were cutting, perming and designing hair with that touch of glamor.

Besides recruiting 30 models who'll let Donna and her staff try finishing techniques on their hair, Donna also lined up six volunteers who were dancing between cutting classes.

Hairdressers from across Canada are attending this convention which wraps up an international competition.

Donna manned the Zotos Permanent Company booth, a company she teaches for part-time, at the convention.

"I've been really thrilled with the support I've gotten from people in the community."

A Zotos designer won the Saskatchewan competition and is competing for the grand national championship against the other provincial winners.

Donna is looking for more townspeople to take part in a May 5 convention at the Sheraton Centre in Toronto, and a May 27 and 28 convention in London, Ontario.

Call 877-7919 if you'd like to be a model and get a complimentary permanent or hair cut.

Because of the extra work involved in the convention this month, Scissors was closed March 11.

Haircuts by Scissors' staff were recently photographed on the request of the editor of an international hair styling magazine called "Passion". Donna expects the photos to appear in the magazine's fall issue. The magazine is distributed in 40 countries.

Variety night satire

Gossip focuses on Norval laundramat

NORVAL - Variety Night Friday at Norval United Church was a fun night, with the collection going to support the church's foster child.

Chairman Terry Laidlaw called on Brenda Kistner, Paul and Marg Tamblin of Action who sang several numbers as a trio.

The Junior Choir played out a skit as well as singing "This Land Is Your Land", and the Sunday School teachers and Senior Choir introduced the "Norval Laundramat", and the usual gossip while the clothes were being washed.

Unit II portrayed their monthly meeting, comic style, and the men's choir sang a medley of songs.

The Friendship Group played out "Mary's Nursery Class", and Mary Anne Moffatt, dressed as the Pink Elephant, told the story of the Pink Elephant.

Ten United Church women were taken by members of Unit I and Kay Wilson gave the reading "Somebody's Mother".

Wayne and Terry Laidlaw sang several duets and a skit by Dorothy McLean and Marie Murray "The Woman on the Curb" finished off another successful evening.

Congratulations to MPP Julian Reed who was the winner of the $1,000 ticket at the $106 a plate dinner of the Streetsville Lions Club held at the Hansa Club, Brampton.

MIRACLE'S WISH

Miracle Mart employees are a charitable bunch. Each week a deduction is taken out of their paycheck to help out a local organization. This year they chose the cancer society and a $80 check was presented to Halton Hills Cancer Society chairman Murt Allison. Seen here are (left to right) George Lotowski, new store manager from the Barrie Miracle Mart store, Murt Allison, cashier Marge Bingham, produce manager George Donnelly.

New Sgt. for community work

A new man has been transferred to the Halton Regional Police Force's community relations bureau.

Sergeant Dave Atkinson was most recently with the criminal investigation bureau. There he was involved in investigations ranging from thefts to homicides.

He was promoted to sergeant Jan. 31 and assigned to the community relations bureau Feb. 4.

Sergeant Atkinson has successfully completed several courses at the Ontario Police College and has received training in security equipment in England and the United States.

He was born in Barbados, West Indies, where he received his education at Harrison College. He emigrated to Canada in 1972 and presently resides in Waterdown with his wife and two daughters.

TOP SPEAKERS

Technion award winner

A group consisting of Doug Braam, of Georgetown, Derek Schuurman, Michael Rupke and Ron Prins, all from the Toronto District Christian High School, won the Hewlett Packard Award for the best technical innovation project at the Fourth Annual Technion Science Fair, held at the Ontario Science Centre February 21-24.

They each won a programmable calculator for their J.U.D.I. robot. J.U.D.I., a classic example of a homemade project, was made out of junk for under $60.

They salvaged things like aluminum, javex bottles, carpet underpadding, wheels, wood and a windshield-wiper motor from the dump. This robot was truly made from the ground up.

More than 55 students from high schools, colleges and universities from across Ontario participated in the Fair.
