

MARKET STREET FIRE — — — THROUGH THE LENS

PHOTOS BY DAN RALPH

Though it looks as if this firefighter is engulfed in flames, it's really a few feet away, as men look for the best way to fight the Market Street fire. Most of the damage was done to the upper portions of the residence. (Herald photo)

This three storey blaze on Market Street kept firefighters from the town of Halton Hills busy Thursday morning. Smoke billowed out of the top storey, forcing firefighters to fight the fire from the rooftops. (Herald photo)

Complete with oxygen mask and tank, this firefighter checks a source of the fire. (Herald photo)

Foster parents wanted: long hours, hard work, great rewards.

Being a foster parent is a tough job. It's full-time. Twenty-four hours a day. Often frustrating, and always demanding of your patience, energy and love.

Yet despite its demands, or maybe because of them, thousands of people take foster children into their homes each year.

Some are children, some are teenagers. Some have special physical or emotional needs. But all have one thing in common. They need a sense of place and security to help them through a difficult period in their lives, and to prepare them for reuniting with their families.

There's a very basic joy in sharing with a child or young person some of the richness that life has given you.

As part of a team of social workers and other professionals, you'll be helping foster children and their parents when they need help most. And helping yourself at the same time, to mature and grow as an individual.

If you'd like to learn more about becoming a foster parent, contact your local Children's Aid Society or Family and Children's Services.

It's not an easy task. Few jobs demand more of a person.

But fewer still give more in return.
