Bride's dress had Victorian neckline

Herald Special
 Guests came from British Columbia, Quebec, Holland and London, Ontario to attend the double ring ceremony for Jean Louise Galbraith and Tony Wilhelm Turnhout.

The couple were married in St. Alban's Anglican Church in Glen Williams May 25 at 3 p.m.

The afternoon ceremony by Rev. John Roberts and organist Kate Murray was followed by a reception at the bride's RR3 Georgetown home, Brockton Farm, and at the Acton Legion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Ken Galbraith. Carrying a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses and baby's breath, Jean wore a full-length white gown with a Victorian neckline of appliqued net. The sleeves of her dress were also appliqued net.

The bride's dress had a full train, and she wore a white hat with a veil down to the waist.

The son of Mrs. Lena Turnhout and Marian and Art Turnhout, the groom wore a black tuxedo with grey ascot and a red rose with baby's breath in his lapel. The ushers dressed similarly except they wore a white carnation with baby's breath in their tuxedo lapels.

The church was decorated with pink carnations for the wedding ceremony.

A friend of the bride, Jackie Diegel was Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids at the wedding were: sister Claire House, sister Tricia Purton, and the groom's sister Maria Turnhout.

The women wore full-length burgundy dresses in a style to match the bride's dress. Their bouquets were pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Erik Turnhout of Terra Cotta was the Best Man for his brother's wedding.

Ushers were Mark Galbraith, John Galbraith and Rick Wilmot.

At the reception, guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ken and Judie Galbraith, and Mr. and Mrs. Art and Marian Turnhout. Mrs. Galbraith wore a short pink dress with an orchid corsage and Mrs. Turnhout wore a short dark blue dress with an orchid corsage.

The bride's going-away outfit was a cocktail length teal dress.

The couple went to Antigua for their honeymoon, and have set up housekeeping in Terra Cotta.

The new Mrs. Turnhout is employed by the Ontario Correctional Institute in Brampton while the groom works for Glidden Paints in Bramalea.

BARBECUE BONANZA

General Manager Bruce Wannemaker gets ready to flip one of 500 hamburgers cooked at the Varian Canada second annual luncheon barbecue last Friday. The barbecue for employees where managers cook happens before 240 of 340 employees take two weeks off for the summer shutdown. There were plenty of hotdogs, soft drinks and potato salad at the feast.

Contract to arbitration

Herald Staff
 Halton region's contract negotiations with the Halton regional police have been postponed as police rejected a 4.2 per cent wage increase for the first year. A 3.8 per cent raise was proposed for the second year.

The region's offer would have put a first-class constable's annual salary at $35,530 in January 1986. When benefits are included, the figure becomes $49,000.

Halton regional police are asking for a 9.12 per cent increase.

The Metro Toronto Police recently settled for a 6.7 per cent increase, and the Ontario Provincial Police negotiated a 7.1 per cent increase.

Halton regional police Commissioner Ric Morrow called the demands of police "unreasonable" and noted that the average annual wage increase of Canadians is 4 per cent.

"The comparative pricing is a kind of leap frog that drives wages up. Where is it going to end?" Commissioner Morrow said.

The offer made to police was based on research by an analyst who considered the economics of the region.

"It was based on the cost of living and reality," Mr. Morrow said. The negotiations are now "out of the hands of the board," he added.

An arbitrator will be appointed by the Ministry of Labour to resolve the deadlock.

Mormon missionaries arrive

A retired couple from Utah are making the Toronto area including Halton Hills their mission ground for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Warren and Maurine Ottley are from Utah and received training in Provo Utah. They will not be paid for their work, but will be living off their savings.

"We are sad to leave our family and friends, but this will be a very exciting experience for us. We love the gospel of Jesus Christ and want very much to share it with others," said Warren Ottley.

Most missionaries for the Church are still young but there are almost 2,000 older couples serving throughout the world, said Mr. Ottley.

Duncan Street will have to wait

Traffic on Duncan Street will be studied in September, when students head back to school and pedestrian traffic increases in the area, town engineer Bob Austin said.

He said his traffic analyst had done a study when school was out and found traffic and pedestrian volumes weren't great. Coun. Marilyn Serjeantson said she was concerned as to when the report will be coming back, and said it was frustrating to have to wait seven or eight months to get a report.

There are seven outstanding traffic reports, Mr. Austin informed her. Clerk administrator

Ken Richardson said there'll be a report made on the personnel problems in the town's engineering department at the next council meeting.

Coun. Serjeantson asked that it include an investigation of how much it would cost to have the seven outstanding traffic reports done by outside consultants.

Historical Quiz Contest

The Esqueving Historical Society is extending their historical quiz contest until next week. They originally offered the quiz at the Pioneer Days celebration in Georgetown in June.

Anyone who wants to enter the contest is eligible for a draw offered by the Society for a copy of Fuller's Counties of Peel and Halton Directory of 1866-67.

Animal Control statistics

Statistics for Halton Hills Animal Control show the number of animals that had to be destroyed this June were half what they were in June 1984.

According to Joe Kirley, animal control officer, 28 animals had to be destroyed last month, compared to 48 in June 1984.

Eleven animals were reclaimed by owners last month of the 44 impounded.

There were 2,265 licenses sold this year to July 4.

No downtown meters

The business development committee parroted a decision already made by town council over metering downtown Georgetown parking areas.

The committee agreed that the Wesleyan and Church Street municipal parking lots not be metered as this would deter shoppers from bringing their business downtown.

"Had this council not already made a decision relative to that?" town coun. Harry Levy demanded at Monday night's council meeting.

"Yes," replied clerk administrator Ken Richardson.
