It's a sad feeling to know we live in a world where a child's safety can't be taken for granted. Child Find is an organization in Canada that has formed to help parents reunite with their siblings. The group has been in Ontario for 15 months and in Canada since 1983. They teach parents and children how to be aware of the dangers on the street; they promote a 'safe arrival' phone check in Halton schools and are holding finger printing clinics. The most crucial Child Find role is their work helping to find abducted children. In co-operation with police across the country, they have a toll free number and encourage anyone who thinks they have seen a missing child to phone
