By ELINOR FULLER

The Georgetown atom girls select team recently met Erin Mills, and although they lost 2-0 the game was one of the best the team had played to date.

The highlight of the contest was Georgetown goaltender Beth Fuller's save off a penalty shot. The game was more evenly matched than the score reflected.

Last Friday the team met a strong Oakville team, and even though they came away with a loss it showed the team wouldn't give up trying no matter the score.
