INSIDE OPEN DOOR

Dinner response overwhelming

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles submitted about events at Open Door, a youth drop-in centre, operating at St. George's Anglican Church.

By BOB TADMAN
Open Door Director

As we look forward to 1986, there is a sense of Open Door being somewhat like a blank book ready to be filled with the stories that are yet to occur. At Open Door there is a lot of expectancy about what the new year will bring - expectancy mingled with some fear and trepidation.

special speakers, and daily activities depend on how willing people are to be involved with one another.

Over 120 people from different groups and backgrounds, ages and grades use Open Door daily.

It is up to them whether or not the place is a hang-out, used by a select few and adorned with wrecked furniture and garbage (something that wouldn't last more than a few days), or someplace that is (reasonably) clean and hospitable where friends get together.

To this point Open Door has succeeded in being the latter to a great many who use it. It is a wee bit unnerving running it this way, but very satisfying.

Our recent "Christmas at Open Door" when we hosted parents and grandparents of the teens was a huge success. We were expecting about 110 for food, entertainment and dancing, but about 200 showed up. This was a much appreciated show of support for all involved with Open Door.

Our thanks to those who attended. And thanks also to the many individual clubs, churches and the regional government for their enthusiastic support of Open Door.

We hope that Open Door will continue to grow as an integral part of the Georgetown and area community, providing special happenings and memories for our youth. So, from all of us to all of you, a happy, healthy 1986.

FORTHCOMING EVENTS

Jan. 26 7 p.m. - Sunday Nite Open Door - a night of song, Biblical storytelling and fun. Tonight we will be commissioning Mark Buttrey as a paid worker at Open Door.

A program for elderly psychiatric patients

A new assessment and out-patient program at Joseph Brant Memorial Hospital in Burlington will soon be serving elderly people with psychiatric illnesses, Health Minister Murray Elston announced this week.

Recommended by Halton District Health Council, the new program for Halton Region will cost $91,357 a year, to be provided to the hospital by the ministry.

"Support groups for family members will be organized as part of the program, and consultations arranged as needed with physicians, nursing homes, public health and existing community support programs," Don Knight, MPP Halton-Burlington, said.

The program will serve 120 people a year in an area with a population of about 140,000 people. It's estimated that Halton Region has approximately 9,800 residents who are 65 years of age or older.

Program staff, in addition to providing direct care and treatment to out-patients, will undertake public education programs to create greater awareness about aging and about the effective management of psychiatric problems.

"The program is among 34 new community mental health programs to be funded by the ministry at an annual cost of $4.6 million," Mr. Elston said. "Another $1.5 million has been approved for enhancement of existing programs. This brings total spending to $48 million annually for 276 community mental health programs."

Prayer for unity

The Georgetown Ministerial Association is sponsoring a special community service Jan. 22, at 7:30 to be celebrated in the St. Andrew's United Church sanctuary. Representatives from the churches of Georgetown will participate, and the residents of the Georgetown community are encouraged to attend.

The service marks a week of prayer for Christian unity which is being observed concurrently throughout the world. It seeks to promote understanding and Christian love among all denominations and groups of the church worldwide. Following the service it is hoped the

Woman's Place speaker

NORVAL - Pinegrove Community Club met at the home of Irene Hunter Jan. 13. Gertrude McGee chaired a short business meeting. Norval Imaginary bake sale

By KAY WILSON
Herald Special

NORVAL - World affairs was the theme for the February meeting of the Brampton West Women's Institute held at the home of Isobel McKay.

Jean Williamson and Ina Terry assisted the hostess in serving dessert.

The roll call question was "If you had to leave Canada, where would you settle?"

Responses indicated that no one wanted to leave Canada, although in some of their travels they had seen attractive places. New Zealand was the most popular alternative. Isobel McKay accompanied by Doris Sharpe led the members in singing This Land is My Land.

The secretary announced the Flower and Craft Show to be held at the International Centre, Airport Road, Feb. 8-10. For more information call 445-6641.

To provide branch funds, members contributed to an imaginary bake sale.

Isobel McKay read correspondence from a Norwegian Women's Institute friend, who had met Brampton West members during a visit to this area.

Jean Williamson introduced our guest speaker Beryl Gaspard, who has retired from a rewarding career in nursing in which she has held many responsible positions. Her husband is a professional engineer consultant.

He and his family fled Hungary as the Soviets were invading the country. Mr. and Mrs. Gaspard have had several trips back to Hungary in recent years and were able to visit family members who were living there.

The slides showed Hungary as a beautiful country. Lois Fraser thanked Mrs. Gaspard and presented her with a token of appreciation. Dorothy Ostrander will be hostess for the Family and Consumer Affairs meeting Feb. 11. Nancy Smith will be guest speaker.

Food proof

NORVAL - Unit 1 of the Norval United Church Women met at the home of Marion Laird last Thursday. Marion was assisted in serving dessert by Lalla Smith.

President Dorothy McLean opened the meeting with a New Year's resolution, "Food Proof Formula."

Business included appointing Dorothy to the executive. The Presbytery will be held in Acton United Church Jan. 22. World Day of Prayer is March 7 at 10 p.m. in Norval United Church with Mrs. Dayfoot of Brampton as guest speaker.

A pancake social will be served in the church Feb. 11, 6-7:30 p.m. by the Friendship Unit and they are also collecting old eye glasses for the Lions Club.

A daffodil supper is planned for all three units April 9. The devotional was taken by Ethel Webb and centred around the 23 Psalm. She also read the poem All The Hills of Heaven from Margaret McClure's book. Kay Wilson chose for the study, an article on Korea. How they celebrate special days and church customs was learned.
