

Praise for Jean our top citizen

Arms laden with congratulatory plaques, Georgetown's Citizen of the Year Jean Layman was told she was going to need another wall to accommodate her new possessions, Saturday night.

The long-time member of the Scouting movement was honored at the annual dinner of the Georgetown Lions Club and presented with certificates of appreciation from politicians of all levels, including the Prime Minister of Canada, Brian Mulroney.

"This celebration reflects the high esteem in which Jean is held by her fellow citizens in Georgetown," said the Prime Minister's letter. "Her good will and dedication to good works are recognized and deeply appreciated by all those who value the spirit of community service."

"Whether through youth groups, charities, or community projects, Jean has always shown a generosity of time and spirit that can serve us an inspiration to us all."

About 120 friends, relatives, former Citizens of the Year and Lions Club members turned out for a roast beef dinner at the Lions Hall Saturday night honoring this woman.

The Chairman of the Lions Club committee, which chose Mrs. Layman for this honor, noted her many years of leadership and support to young people and said it gave him great pleasure to present her with a plaque. Peter Young was one of Jean's cubs.

Town Coun. Pam Johnston read a letter from vacationing MP John McDermond which thanked Mrs. Layman for her "tireless and unselfish giving" of her time and energy for the benefit of others.

MP Don Knight presented the Citizen of the Year with a plaque signed by Premier David Peterson and said he joined the community in being very proud of Mrs. Layman.

"Jean has put so much into her community," Halton Hills Mayor Russ Miller said. "Many, many years of volunteerism have gone into this town. It does my heart good to see all the hours that have been put into this town."

Regional Chairman Peter Pomeroy said he'd been to many scouting events and said more than 1,000 young people know Jean by name.

Along with a bouquet of red carnations and baby's breath, the Georgetown Lions Club Citizen of the Year was presented with a slew of congratulatory plaques Saturday night. Told she plans to retire from her position with Standard Products, the Regional Chairman said it will give Mrs. Layman more time to do volunteer work.

"I've put my all into it and have received many, many rewards from the boys and many gifts I truly treasure - cups and saucers, jewellery and an Elephant Ears plant," a humbled Mrs. Layman sported a yellow corsage and brown suit, said.

"Most of all, I would like to thank my family for their support. Jack (husband) has been a great support all these years," she said. "The support of the family has been what has kept me there, really."

For 29 years Mrs. Layman has been active in the Scouting movement, starting when she joined the Ladies Auxiliary at a church in Niagara Falls. That was when her son John, now married and a father himself, became a cub.

In 1960, her family moved to Georgetown and she continued as assistant cubmaster at St. John's United Church. After two years she took on her own cub pack and the title of Akela. After 17 years of that, she moved up to publicity director for the district.

Jan 2, Mrs. Layman was appointed assistant district commissioner of Georgetown's scouting movement. As well as her involvement in scouting, Jean has been a member of the Rebekkah Ladies Association of the Oddfellows Club since 1950, a hospital auxiliary volunteer since the mid-1960s, and members of the Georgetown Red Cross know her to be active in their annual door-to-door canvass.

Census jobs perfect for students

If you've just polished off your resume, don't sit back and take a breather.

Greg Robinson, supervisor of the Students Employment Centre in town has 50 to 60 jobs coming up for students and young people beginning May 20.

Get that resume off in his direction as soon as possible. June 3 is the official Census Day and you could earn $500 to $600 as a census representative.

The deadline for applying at the Canada Employment Centre on Mountainview Road and Guelph Street is March 31.

To be a Census representative you must be 18, a resident in the general area in which you'll be distributing and collecting the census questionnaires and be available for Saturday and evening work from May 20 to at the latest, June end.

Three half-day training sessions are going to be held May 22, May 30 and June 4, and census representatives must attend these. Young people 15 to 17 years old are also being hired to do clerical jobs for the census.

The 1986 Census Student Youth Recruitment Program is a co-operative effort between Statistics Canada and Employment and Immigration Canada.

"Since the census falls in the summer, they thought it would be an excellent opportunity for youth to gain valuable work experience, make money and make contacts," Mr. Robinson said.

Although anybody can apply to work on the census, the goal of the program is to hire 70 per cent youth and students and 20 per cent others. The "others" can be seniors or people with extra time who want to earn a little money. They can also apply at the Employment Centre in town.

Census representatives are paid on a piece rate basis which means a fixed amount per dwelling, plus bonuses. The work can be done evenings or weekends, Mr. Robinson said, anytime the homeowners are home.

Having talked to the guidance counsellors at both Georgetown and Acton high schools, Mr. Robinson said applications are already trickling in.

The census information is used by the federal, provincial and municipal governments for planning and policies. It's used in planning schools, housing, water and power supplies, fire protection, hospital locations, manufacturing and sales.

Business firms use census information in marketing studies to determine the best location for new plants and branch operations, in plans for capital investment and other ways.

Pomeroy tops salary list

The highest paid elected member of Halton region in 1985 was, naturally, enough Chairman Peter Pomeroy.

Along with a salary of $46,936, the Regional Chairman received 4,326 in benefits, $4,982 in car mileage and meeting allowance expenses, and $1,057 in conference expenses. That totals $57,303.

Next highest was Mayor Russ Miller, who outdid all the mayors in his spending. Mayor Miller was paid $14,200 in regional salary and $649 in benefits, like Milton Mayor Bill Krantz and Burlington Mayor Roly Bird. However, the Halton Hills Mayor tallied car mileage and meeting allowance expenses of $1,234, double that of any other councillor, and conference expenses of $966. In total, he cost the region $17,061 in 1985.

As well, Mayor Miller was paid $1,534.66 by the Halton Region Conservation Authority. For attending the Authority meetings, the mayor was paid $1,390 and another $344 for car mileage over the year.

Coun. John McDonald earned a regional councillor's salary of $14,200 plus benefits of $649. His car mileage and meeting allowance was $726 in 1985. He didn't attend any conferences.

Defeated Coun. Mike Armstrong was paid $13,220 and benefits of $603 last year as were Couns. Jake Kuiken and Dave Whiting, also defeated in the November municipal elections.

Coun. Armstrong's mileage was $336 and his attendance at the A.M.O. Conference in Ottawa last August cost Halton $1,102. The councillor also earned $304 and another $73 in car mileage for attendance at Credit Valley Conservation Authority meetings in the past year.

Coun. Kuiken didn't attend any conferences in 1985, but Coun. Whiting did. He went to the Ontario Good Roads Association conference in Toronto and to the A.M.O. conference in Ottawa. His bill for the two conferences totalled $1,147.

Student Centre opens next month

The Student Employment Centre in Georgetown isn't going to be at 7 James St. after all. Centre Supervisor Greg Robinson and his two student placement officers will be working out of the Canada Employment Centre on Mountainview Road and Guelph Street this summer.

Greg hopes to be moving in next month to be located at the back part of the office, the students will have their own entrance. Signs on the main doors of the Canada Employment Centre will direct students to the Student Employment Centre.

To find out more, call Greg at 451-8330.
