Shutterbug Nancy wins twice

The competition among camera buffs was stiff, but the judges have made their decision. Photoart '86 winners were unveiled last Wednesday night at the Halton Hills Cultural Centre gallery. Mayor Russ Miller announced the winners of the juried exhibit of prints by local photographers.

Richard A. Armstrong won an award for his photo entitled "Afterglow". He was entered in the "city life" category.

Sylvia Jones received a prize for the best photograph in the category "Foreign Countries", while Graham Tyler captured a merit award for his photo entitled "Bird Market, Hong Kong". His work was submitted in the "people at work and play" category.

John Weir won an award of merit for his photograph called "Reading Chair". His work was entered in the "abstract" category.

Nancy Murphy won a prize for her photo "Rebecca" in the portrait category while also taking top honors for best photograph in the black and white category.

Robert A. McNaughton's picture of "Summer on the Farm" caught the judges' eye in the country life category.

Honorable mentions were as follows:

Richard A. Armstrong for "Metal Majesty"; David Bianchi for "Bryan Adams at Maple Leaf Gardens"; Gretchen Hamilton Day for "Early One Morning"; Andrew Delroy for "Cafe, Rue Pasquier, Paris"; Cassie Gairdner for "Georgetown Runners"; Lorne Geddes for "Sun Set"; Sylvia Jones for "Coffee Break, Crete"; Colin Vernon for "Spruced Up Cones and John Weir for "5 o'clock Shadows".

Scotsdale has an on-site rep

Scotsdale Farm will be gaining a resident.

The Ontario Heritage Foundation has hired a site co-ordinator to live on the 540 acre farm near Ballinafad.

Ron Reid, a graduate of the University of Guelph, will take up residence in part of the main farmhouse with his family this month.

Mr. Reid has been entrusted with developing a more detailed site plan for the farm, said Brian Rogers, the property administrator for the OHF.

"He'll be our on-site representative and meet the groups and report back to us making recommendations," said Mr. Rogers.

Mr. Reid will be encouraging other proposals from people about the use of the farm, donated to the people of Ontario by the late Stewart and Letty Bennett.

The OHF will be making a presentation to the Halton Board of Education tomorrow (Thursday). A consultant's report, released last fall to the public, recommended the Halton Board of Education be a prime user of the site and co-ordinate the activities of the other users.

The Halton Board of Education felt they didn't have the qualifications or expertise to help in the initial planning stages, said Mr. Rogers. Hence, the OHF went ahead with a site co-ordinator, he said.

The Board hasn't yet made any commitment as to their role with Scotsdale Farm. A report suggests that trustees approve a move for staff to continue negotiations with the OHF "in order that this outdoor education site might be made available to the pupils of Halton."

A summer camp proposal by the Optimist Club hasn't been discussed recently, said Mr. Rogers. "I never heard anything more about a camp proposal." Potential users will be invited to meet Ron Reid this month, Mr. Rogers said.

One proposal the OHF has been approached about is from the Bruce Trail Association. They want to re-route part of the trail so that it detours through Scotsdale Farm, Mr. Rogers said.

The television series "The Campbells" was a success and may be returning to the Scotsdale site if their permit is renewed by the Niagara Escarpment Commission in April, Mr. Rogers said.

There may be some negotiations with regard to the production crew facilities such as trailers near the road, he said.

One possibility for administering the site may be worked out by asking each of the user groups at Scotsdale to participate on a board of directors, said Mr. Rogers.

Here April 5

Don't miss Expo singer Holly

Holly Arntzen in Concert is the Rotary Club's presentation for April 5 at the John Elliott Theatre.

The occasion marks 31 years of Rotary in Georgetown and in particular is designed not only to bring first-rate Canadian talent to J.E.T. but to raise funds in support of the Rotary Foundation, said President Arend Roos.

The Rotary Foundation of Rotary International promotes world understanding and peace through international charitable and educational programs such as scholarships, group study exchanges and projects such as 3H (Grants for Health, Hunger and Humanity).

On April 5, Georgetown will be able to enjoy this acclaimed young Vancouver artist and her trio. A featured performer at Expo '86 Japan, Holly has been touring throughout Canada and will appear later this summer for a two-week engagement at Canada Place, Expo '86.

A distinctive and outstanding mark of Holly's performances is her versatility and range - from folk to jazz to blues-rock - all done with an excellence sustained by her classical training.

Don't miss Holly Arntzen! Tickets are $12, obtainable from Rotarians, Ensigns and Flags, Wesleyan St. (873-0100) or phone 877-4078.

"Holly Arntzen is a cross over artist of an entirely different kind. In the course of one concert, Holly shifts gears from blues to swing to classical so often and so smoothly, the music sounds like one wholly integrated style all her own." That's what the critics say. Come see for yourself when Holly performs in Georgetown. (Photo submitted)

Lions host seniors supper

NORVAL-Norval had area seniors as far south as Steeles Avenue, including the Trafalgar Road area, were special guests of the Huttonville Lions Club. They also entertained Huttonville area seniors, numbering a 100 in all.

A beautiful five course roast beef dinner was served by the Lions in the community centre March 7. Dinner music was provided by Fred Bottle of Georgetown and Hank Henricks, a local country and western singer.

Carol Bruneau of Toastmaster International spoke and shared slides on behalf of Expo '86 in B.C. Nancy's School of Dancers entertained with several group dances.

Thanks for the beautiful evening was expressed by both Irene Goodfellow and Spence Wilson.

Congratulations to Norval's Walter Bianchi on receiving the hockey heritage award at the March 10 banquet. His generous support of Georgetown minor hockey has been appreciated by hundreds of boys who have played on the Sunny Acres team.

Pinegrove Club met at the home of Claude McLaughlin March 10. Chris Groom, an esthetician, who grooms feet and manicures nails, gave a demonstration.

Penny sale fog

By WINIFRED SMITH
Herald Correspondent

BALLINAFAAD-The weather did not co-operate too much for the Ballinafad Euchre and Penny Sale sponsored by the Women's Institute. In spite of the foggy night, there was still a good turnout. There were 18 tables in play.

The prize winners in euchre were (ladies) Jackie Kirk, Helen Humphreys and Doris Burt, (men) Mr. Dunbar, Peter Van Helvert and William McLean. The door prize draw was won by Hank Burnett.

Most everyone present had tickets for the penny sale.
