

IN THE HILLS

Alligator cracks

A joint tender to surface-treat roads in Halton's four municipalities is being awarded to MSO Construction Limited of Rexdale.

The lowest bidder, the company is going to undertake the work for $853,543, of which $152,948 will be for Halton Hills roads.

As explained in a report from the region's Public Works Director Bob Moore, surface treating is an annual program that repairs alligator cracking, severe potholing and poor skid resistance on regional roads. It also improves the water tightness of the road surface which reduces deterioration of the road base.

VCR winner

Who was the lucky movie madness winner? It was Lorna McCashew of Georgetown. She won a VCR from G and S Television owner Steve Palichuk. Contest organizer Marc Bertrand of The Herald was at the presentation Friday morning.

Buying up land

The Credit Valley Conservation Authority has been busy buying up Niagara Escarpment lands this spring.

A 50-acre parcel adjacent to the Terra Cotta forest was purchased in February and 25 acres directly across Winston Churchill Boulevard from this parcel was bought in May.

Also in early May, the 12-acre Dodokin property which backs directly on to the Terra Cotta Conservation Area at Valleyview Campground was bought. The house on this property will be sold together with about three acres of land, leaving the Authority with the significant valley lands on the remaining nine acres.

The Authority is currently negotiating for two other properties at Silver Creek, plus the Cox property in Belfountain which links the Willoughby property to the Forks of the Credit provincial park.

The Willoughby property was bought by the Ontario Heritage Foundation April 1, and on the same day, the Authority became custodian of the property. A feasibility study of future uses of the site is now being undertaken. Meanwhile, the existing residential use will continue.

Active Norval, despite rain at Victoria Day celebration

By KAY WILSON
Herald Special

NORVAL-In connection with the Victoria Day celebrations, Norval became a hive of activity Saturday morning when people looking for goodies from the more than 10 garage sales turned up as early as 7 a.m. The beautiful warm weather added to the day.

Sunday evening a pot luck supper was held at 5:30 p.m. at Norval United Church, with Susan Glassford convening. Following the dinner a community church service was held. Rev. Angus Sutherland led everyone in singing "Lead me Jesus". Two lovely choir numbers were given by members from the three Norval churches forming the choir. While Marg Ridley played the organ, Gerry Murphy directed the choir.

Each Norval minister gave a message. Rev. Walter Ridley's was "Can these bones live", a message of hope as the theme, reading from Ezekiel 37-14. Rev. Rick Ruggie's scripture was from John 14 on the "Power of the spirit", and Rev. Sutherland's message from Acts 2:1-11, the Day of Pentecost.

Beautiful hymns added to the service, closing with "The day thou gavest Lord is ended".

Rainy weather didn't stop little old Norval from celebrating Monday's Victoria Day with a great parade. Leading the parade were the Halton Regional Police followed by a drummer and piper from the Lorne Scots in Brampton.

Norval's "children of the future" were riding next, in a decorated wagon. Nursery school characters Big Bird, Bert and Ernie were also there, to the pleasure of youngsters.

Riding behind were three vintage cars owned by Hyatt McClure, Malcolm Black, both of Norval, and Charles and Annette Emmons of Glen Williams. All paraded from Norval's four corners to the Community Centre where the Rhythm Cloggers and a puppet show were entertaining area residents.

Home made salads, hamburgers, hot dogs and home made pies by the Community Association added to Norval's festivities.

On behalf of the Community Association, Susan Glassford thanked the Norval Women's Institute, Van Ofwegen Flowers, the Rhythm Cloggers and Hollywood Tavern for crushed ice. All helped make the Victoria Day celebrations a success.

It's not easy to teach children, women agree

NORVAL-The Brampton West Women's Institute met at the home of Jane Terry May 13 for their family and consumer affairs meeting.

Presiding was president Isobel McKay while secretary Isabel Fraser recorded the minutes.

Mac Dixon reported on plans for the 50th anniversary of the branch to be held at Snelgrove Hall Nov. 11. Mabel Terry conducted a garden contest won by Isabel Fraser and Louis Upham.

Roll call asked: how do you teach your child responsibility? Noreen French asked members what influence the family group has on its members.

Since 1900, the rural population has declined from 60 to 30 per cent. Families lacking a father figure have increased from 1.8 per cent in 1961 to 11.5 per cent in 1986. In some urban areas 63 per cent of families have both parents working. Outside influences and agencies are directly involved to a much greater degree than one generation ago. Successful parenting is a challenge and very rewarding to the family involved.

The Peel South Women's Institute invites the community, Sr. 4-11 members and young career persons to a seminar on personal financial management to be held at Huttonville Community School at 7:30 p.m. June 18.

Lois Fraser conducted a plant sale then thanked the lunch committee of Mabel Terry, Charlotte McClure, Janet Struiksma and hostess Jane Terry.

The Tweedsmuir History meeting will be held June 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Isabelle McClure. Peel Archivist Michael Prodfoot will speak. Tweedsmuir History Books and scrap books will be on display.

Landmark minister

Flowers will bloom at club show, sale

For the Georgetown and District Horticultural Society, May and June are busy months.

Tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m., the annual May Flower Show will be held at Knox Presbyterian Church in Georgetown. The best of the spring flowering bulbs, perennials, and shrubs will be shown off.

Rural women

Discover Ontario's Rural Roots this summer at the Ontario Agricultural Museum in Milton. The Museum will be opening for its eighth season, May 12 until October 13, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. This 32-hectare living Museum, consisting of over 30 buildings and displays, traces the evolution of agriculture in Ontario.

New this season will be the reconstruction of a 1910 stone school house which will represent the many one-room school houses vital to the rural community. In addition, a display depicting Ontario's apple industry will be featured.

A special exhibit, "Rural Women - Labour and Leisure 1830s to 1980s" will feature the role of rural women over the past 150 years. This unique and enlightening display will be located in the Museum's Gambrel Barn from July 1 to Aug. 22.

Get well wishes

NORVAL-Get well wishes to Gordon Miller of Norval who is spending some time in Georgetown District Memorial Hospital.
